About the Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit

The Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) within the System Integrity Branch of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills regulates private institutions that offer career training programs in British Columbia. The System Integrity Branch assumed responsibility for the regulation of career training programs in Summer 2024.

The governing legislation is the Private Training Act (PTA) and related regulations:

- Private Training Act
- Private Training Regulation
- Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

The Online Directory at www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca lists:

- Current information about certified institutions and the programs they offer
- Institutions whose certificates have expired
- Enforcement actions, including compliance orders, administrative penalties, suspensions, cancellations and injunctions
- Information about reconsideration and appeals

About this Manual

This manual is designed to help private institutions understand and comply with the PTA and associated regulations. It also serves to inform students and the general public about the regulatory requirements for private training in British Columbia.

Glossary of Terms is included at the end of this manual.

This manual is not a replacement for the PTA and its regulations, which will prevail in the case of any discrepancy. For the full text of the PTA and regulations, go to www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca.

PTIRU may amend this manual from time to time. For the most current version, go to www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca.

Chapter 1: Certification

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of the Private Training Act
- Sections 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the Private Training Regulation
- Section 3 and 4 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

The PTA sets out the approach for regulating career training in British Columbia. The process is called certification, and institutions can choose from one of two distinct pathways to achieve it – registration or designation.

The following chapter offers information on:

- Who must be certified
- Certificate types
- Requirements for certification
- The application process, step-by-step

1.1 Who requires a certificate?

Private institutions in British Columbia require a certificate if they provide, or offer to provide, at least one career-related program with:

- 40 hours or more of instructional time, and
- Tuition of at least $4,000

This applies to all programs, whether delivered in class or by distance education.

These are called Class A programs.

The PTA does not apply to:

- Elementary, middle and secondary schools
- British Columbia public post-secondary degree-granting institutions
- Private post-secondary degree-granting institutions that offer degree programs
- Professional organizations established under an Act providing career-related programs to their members, if the program is part of professional requirements or for the purpose of professional development

For a complete list of categories of excluded institutions, see Appendix 1.

To request confirmation that your institution is excluded from regulation under the PTA, contact PTIRU at PTI@gov.bc.ca.

1.2 Certificate types

Institutions can apply for either a registration certificate or a designation certificate.

Registration is the minimum requirement for private institutions offering Class A programs (defined in Section 1.1 above).

An institution that wishes to offer a Class A program must be registered. While not required, an institution may apply for registration if planning to solely offer a Class B or a Class C program. See Section 2.1 for more about program classes.

Designation is associated with a higher level of quality. Only designated institutions can:

- Apply for the B.C. Education Quality Assurance (EQA) designation and, once EQA is achieved, enrol international students on study permits
- Apply for StudentAid BC (SABC)

Interim designation may be issued when an institution applies for, but does not meet, all the requirements for designation.

For more on EQA and SABC see Section 5.4.

One of the requirements for a designation certificate is to have held a certificate for two years.¹ This means that first time applicants will not be issued a designation certificate but may be eligible for an interim designation certificate.

Voluntary certification

Institutions may apply for registration or designation if they solely offer a Class C program. They will not qualify for a designation certificate and will be issued either a registration or interim designation certificate.

See Section 2.1 for a complete description of the classes of programs.

1.3 Requirements for a certificate

Institutions may apply for a registration or a designation certificate.

Institutions that do not meet the requirements for designation may be issued an interim designation certificate. The following table outlines the requirements for each type of certificate.

¹ Institutions in the Indigenous institution class do not have to meet this requirement for designation, and will be issued a designation certificate once they meet the requirements for certification. Institutions in this class will be able to apply for EQA and SABC designation once they receive their designation certificate.

Part One: Requirement for first-time applicants for a certificate
<input type="checkbox"/> Attend an orientation session.
Part Two: Requirements for all certificates
<input type="checkbox"/> Have a valid Business BCeID (British Columbia Electronic Identification) account. A Business BCeID is required to access the Private Training Institutions Portal. To get a Business BCeID, go to https://www.bceid.ca/ .
<input type="checkbox"/> Submit an application for certification (institutions applying for certification for the first time must include with their Application – New Certification, at least one application for a program that requires approval).
<input type="checkbox"/> Offer at least one program that requires approval by the registrar.
<input type="checkbox"/> Have general liability insurance.
<input type="checkbox"/> If the institution has continuously held a certificate for the last two years, the institution must have provided an approved program in at least one of those years.
<input type="checkbox"/> Institution must be fit and proper to provide a career training program.
<input type="checkbox"/> Provide financial security, if required by the registrar. First time applicants will generally be required to provide security in the amount of $25,000.² The registrar may require security up to $1,000,000.
<input type="checkbox"/> Pay any outstanding fees, fines or payments.
<input type="checkbox"/> Have submitted student data as required for the previous fiscal year (if not a first-time applicant).
<input type="checkbox"/> Submit business plan (first-time applicant) or financial statements for the previous fiscal year (if not a first-time applicant).

² Institutions in the Indigenous institutions class will not be required to provide security to PTIRU.

Part Three: Requirements for designation – in addition to the requirements for all certificates listed in Part Two

- ☐ Have been continuously certified for the past two years.

This means that first time applicants do not meet the requirements for a designation certificate.

- ☐ Have students enrolled in at least 50% of the approved programs – either currently or at some point in the one-year period that ends on the expiry date included in the institution’s current certificate.

- ☐ Offer at least one Class A or Class C program (does not apply to institutions in the regulatory body institution or Indigenous institution classes).³

Effective January 1, 2026, for institutions that hold a designation certificate.

- ☐ If the institution does not hold a designation certificate, have provided 100% of the hours of instruction of at least 50% of its approved programs of instruction to at least 5 students (does not apply to institutions in the regulatory body institution or Indigenous institution classes).

1.4 Applying for a certificate for the first time

This section of the manual applies to institutions applying for a certificate for the first time.

For information on re-certification, see Chapter 5.

Step 1:

Attend an orientation session.

Someone legally authorized to act on behalf of the institution, or the Senior Educational Administrator for the institution, must complete an orientation session. Where space allows, more than one person may attend. For more information about how to join the next scheduled orientation session, go to New Institutions – Application & Orientation.

³ Does not apply to an institution if all of the approved programs offered by the institution are Class B programs that are designated under section 13 of the Skilled Trades BC Act as either an accredited program or a recognized program.

Step 2:

Have a valid Business BCeID account. Once you have created a Business BCeID account, you will need to provide the full name, email address and BCeID User ID of the BCeID account holder for your institution by emailing this information to PTI@gov.bc.ca. This email must be sent from the email account associated with your BCeID account. Once certified, you will use your BCeID to access the PTIRU Portal (see Chapter 3).

Step 3:

Submit an application for certification using the Application – New Certification available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab at www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca <http://www.xxxx/>. Select one of the following certificate application types:

- Registration
- Designation

First time applicants for a designation certificate will not be issued a designation certificate. One of the requirements for a designation certificate is to have held a certificate for two years; therefore, an interim-designation certificate may be issued. This means a new certificate holder will not have access to StudentAidBC or to EQA for at least two years after the interim designation certificate is issued.

The Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills announced on January 29, 2024, that the Province of British Columbia is implementing a two-year moratorium, until February 2026, on new EQA designations, effective immediately. New institutions will not have access to the federal Designated Learning Institutions list to recruit international students until the moratorium ends. Current institutions may renew their EQA designation during this period.

For a complete list of the information and records required with the application, see Appendix 2.

Business Plan

Institutions applying for a certificate for the first time must submit a business plan that includes the following elements:

- Industry/market analysis
- Marketing plan
- Financial plan

The estimated tuition revenue from approved programs provided in the business plan will be used to assess fees and payments to the Student Tuition Protection Fund charged for the certificate term.

The template for the Business Plan can be found in Appendix 3.

Step 4:

To be certified, institutions must offer at least one program that requires PTRIU approval.

Submit new program applications for all programs.

For each new program, submit an Application – New Program form. For programs that you believe do not require approval, use the Request for Confirmation of Program Class form.

Submit new program applications for all programs at the same time you submit your Application – New Certification.

Application forms are available on the Forms, Templates and Resources page of the PTRIU website. Email the completed applications along with all required records set out in Appendix 4 to PTI@gov.bc.ca.

For more information about new program applications, see Section 2.3.

Step 5:Pay application fees

Fee	Amount
Registration Application Fee	$4,500
Designation Application Fee	$4,500
New Program Application Fee	See Chapter 2

Application fees are not refundable.

Step 6:Site inspection

For first-time applicants, PTRIU will inspect all locations from where the institution will offer programs.

For more information on inspections, see Chapter 4.

Step 7:

The registrar will assess the application, and, if applicable, require the institution to provide security. Most first-time applicants are required to post financial security of at least $25,000 but the registrar may request up to $1,000,000.

For more on security, see Chapter 8.

Step 8:

Once an institution has met the requirements for a certificate, the registrar will issue a certificate for each location of the institution.

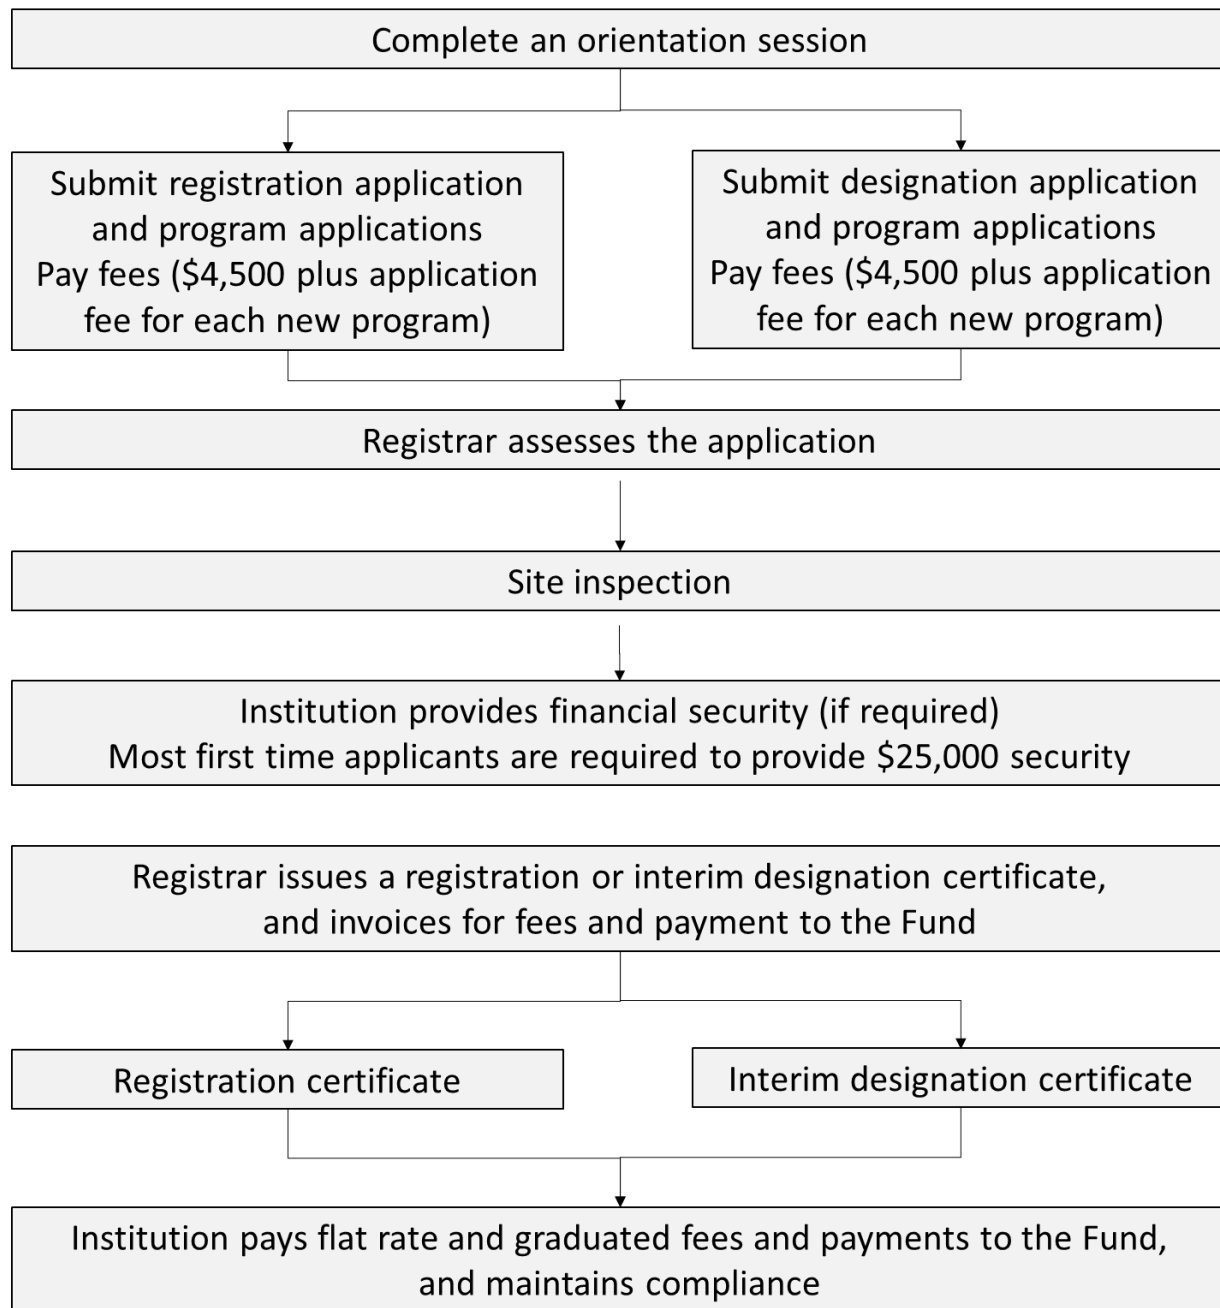

The certificate must be printed and prominently displayed at each location for which a certificate was issued. Certificates must remain posted until they expire or are surrendered or cancelled.

Along with their certificate(s), the institution will receive an invoice, setting out the fees and payments for the certificate term. These will include:

- Flat rate fees
- Graduated fees
- Payments to the Student Tuition Protection Fund (the Fund)

For more on fees and payments to the Fund, see Chapter 7.

Initial Application for a Certificate – Process Overview

1.5 Registrar refuses to issue certificate

The registrar may refuse to issue a certificate if the requirements have not been met. In that case, the registrar will provide the reasons in writing.

The institution may not reapply for a certificate for 12 months following receipt of the decision.

The institution may request a reconsideration of the decision. For details see Chapter 10.

Chapter 2: Programs

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 11 and 12 of the Private Training Act
- Sections 10-14 of the Private Training Regulation
- Section 5 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation.

2.1 Programs that require approval

Programs requiring approval from the registrar fall into three categories:

- Class A: Career-related programs with 40 or more hours of instruction, for which tuition is at least $4,000. A career-related program is defined as a program that has the purpose of enhancing students' employability or ability to carry out a career occupation.
- Class B: Career-related programs, other than Class A programs, for which tuition is at least $1,000.
- Class C: Language programs that are longer than six months or for which tuition is at least $4,000. A language program is defined as a program that has as its learning objective that students gain or improve proficiency in a language.

2.2 Excluded occupations and examples of programs that do not require approval

Programs leading to the following career occupations (described in the current edition of the National Occupational Classification) do not require approval:

- i. 41302 (religious leaders)
- ii. 42204 (religion workers)
- iii. 55109 (other performers)
- iv. 65229 (other support occupations in personal services), other than feng shui practitioner, massager, masseur/masseuse, and Reiki master
- v. 53121 (actors, comedians, and circus performers), other than actors

Also exempt from requiring approval is training for the following career occupations:

- Driving motor vehicles with a class 1,2, 3 or 4 driver's licence
- Operating a vehicle equipped with air brakes under the Motor Vehicle Act
- Driver training instruction as defined in the Motor Vehicle Act Regulations, BC Reg. 26/58

Examples of programs that do not require approval

- A career-related program for which tuition is less than $1,000
- A language program that is no more than six months and less than $4,000
- A commercial driving instruction program

“Employer provided programs”

Programs in which all students enrolled are funded by one employer or one third party, other than an employer or third party that is a public body. Employer provided programs do not require approval unless they are offered to international students on study permits or are funded by a public body.

A public body means:

- (a) a ministry of the government of British Columbia
- (b) an agency, board commission, office, or other body designated in Schedule 2 of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, or

(c) a local public body For a program to qualify as an employer provided program not requiring approval, all students enrolled in each offering of the program must be funded at 100% by the same employer or third party. Separate offerings of the program may be made to different third parties, but in each case all students in that offering must be funded by the same third party. In addition, the program must not be provided to international students requiring a study permit.

You may be required at any time to provide a copy of the agreement(s) between your institution and any employer or other third party to which this program is provided to demonstrate that the program continues to meet the definition of an employer-provided program.

To request confirmation of whether a new program requires approval, including programs that you believe do not require approval, submit a Request for Confirmation of Program Class form. Institutions intending to offer an existing approved program as an employer provided program must also submit a Request for Confirmation of Program Class form.

2.3 Submitting programs

Submit new program applications for all programs.

Submit an application form for each new program, whether the program requires approval or is a program that does not require approval.

For new programs that require approval, use the Application – New Program form.

To request confirmation of whether a new program requires approval, including programs that you believe do not require approval, use the Request for Confirmation of Program Class form.

Application forms are available on the Forms, Templates and Resources page of the PTIRU website. Email the completed application along with all required records set out in Appendix 4 to PTI@gov.bc.ca.

Identify a program evaluator (if required):

Designated/interim designated institutions applying for approval of a Class A program must submit a program evaluation unless the registrar has informed the institution that an evaluation, or certain elements of the evaluation, is not required (see “Program Evaluations” for more information). Institutions may find potential evaluators through professional associations, business networking, regulators, other institutions (public or private), members of their program advisory committee, etc.

It is the institution’s responsibility to ensure that the evaluator has the appropriate background. If an evaluation report is not completed by an appropriate program evaluator the registrar will decline to accept it as meeting the requirement and require an entirely new report. The registrar may also deny the application and require the institution to start over. Institutions in doubt about whether an evaluator is suitable, are recommended to continue their search.

The registrar will assess whether each program requires approval and, if so, the class it is in. For details on the information and records required, see Appendix 4.

Prior to program approval

A certified institution may advertise a program that requires approval, after the program has been submitted for approval but before the program has been approved, but MUST NOT:

- Enrol students
- Accept tuition
- Sign student contracts

An EQA designated institution that advertises a program prior to PTIRU approval must specify in the advertising that the program is not yet available.

Program Evaluations

A new program evaluation is a required part of an application for a Class A program submitted by a designated/interim designated institution, or by an applicant for a designation certificate. It may also be required, at the registrar's discretion, for any other new program or program change requiring approval.

The program evaluation is an important tool that provides the registrar an unbiased opinion about the program submitted for approval.

The registrar may waive the requirement for a program evaluation or elements of that evaluation for a new program application. Requests to waive a program evaluation must be made in advance of application submission. An application submitted without a program evaluation, unless previously waived, will be considered incomplete and will not be accepted for review. Send requests to waive an evaluation to PTI@gov.bc.ca. Include your rationale for requesting the waiver.

Generally, applications for new Class A programs at designated/interim designated institutions, and institutions applying for designation, will require a full program evaluation including an in-person site visit by the evaluator with the submission of a program application. Virtual site visits are only accepted under exceptional circumstances and must be approved in advance by the PTIRU.

The complete evaluation report must be sent directly to PTIRU by the program evaluator. Where appropriate, the program evaluator may choose to include photographs or other documentation with their report. The report should be emailed as an attachment and sent to PTI@gov.bc.ca.

For more information about program evaluations including hiring a program evaluator and when the registrar may waive the requirement for a program evaluation, see Appendix 11: New Program Evaluation Guide. PTIRU does not publish the names of subject matter experts (SMEs) with whom we work. Institutions are responsible for sourcing their own evaluators.

The program evaluation must include sufficient analysis. Program evaluations with no or insufficient analysis will not be accepted.

Pay any applicable fees. See Section 2.5 for more information.

When providing materials to PTIRU, please ensure they can be opened and edited freely. Do not send materials that are password protected or otherwise secured.

Application fees are not refundable.

 EQA designation requires a high degree of transparency. Under the EQA Policy and Procedures Manual, institutions are required to provide full and accurate information regarding their operations, regulatory authority, program offerings, tuition rates and refund policies affecting prospective and current students. The EQA suitability assessment will include a review of all advertised programs that require approval.*

Considerations for Approval

The registrar must take into account the following considerations when deciding whether to approve a program:

a) Whether the program title is consistent with the learning objectives of the program.

In practical terms, this means confirming that the program title:

- Accurately reflects the subject matter of the program;
- Accurately reflects the scope of the program;
- Accurately reflects the knowledge and skill level of the program (i.e. on a scale of foundational to advanced);
- Accurately reflects career occupations for which the program is intended to prepare program graduates, and which will realistically be open to them; and
- Is accurate in anything it states or implies about the program (including by the credential that is awarded and/or is part of the title, e.g. certificate, diploma, post-diploma or post-graduate).

Use of “Advanced”, “Specialist” and similar terms in a program title

In particular with respect to the use of 'Advanced' or other such terms in a program title, the registrar's decision will be based on consideration of whether it is adequately supported by one or more of:

- admission requirements that include substantive quantifiable and documented background (education and/or occupational experience) in the primary subject area of the program;
- learning objectives that demonstrate the program's scope prepares students with skills and knowledge of substantively greater depth and/or breadth than programs in the subject area leading to a regular (i.e. non-Advanced, non-Specialist) credential of the same type (e.g. an Advanced Diploma as compared with a Diploma) at various institutions;
- career outcomes (jobs for which graduates will be prepared based solely on the program curriculum and any previous related skills or knowledge specified in the admission requirements, without additional education or work experience) that are at a higher level of pay and/or responsibility than those accessible to graduates of a regular program;

Any of the above must be in relation to the primary subject area to which the program title refers; addition of skills in a secondary area (such as ESL or business) does not make a program 'advanced'.

PTIRU has identified several program title terms and provided a list of corresponding expectations for program outcomes and requirements. This list should not be considered exhaustive: any term used in a program title must accurately reflect the content and learning objectives of the program.

Program title terminology:

Advanced	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Program learning outcomes prepare the graduate for more than entry level work in a field. ○ Admission requirements include previous experience or education in the field of study, such that students coming into the program are prepared for study at a more advanced level and can qualify for more than entry level positions in a field of study after graduation.
Specialist	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Program learning outcomes reflect in-depth, focused training in specific area of a career. ○ Admission requirements include previous education or experience in the field of study. ○ Institution is able to provide evidence of employability of graduates as 'specialists'.
University Transfer	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Program is transferrable, in its entirety, providing transfer credit for all courses into a bachelor-level program offered by a university in British Columbia.
Post-Diploma	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Admission requirements include a recognized diploma in the career area (not a certificate, or 'equivalent credential') ○ Program learning outcomes increase knowledge already acquired by the diploma required for entry into the program.
Post-Baccalaureate Diploma	Program's admission requirements include a recognized degree in the career area (not a diploma, a certificate, or 'equivalent credential'), and the program's contents and objectives must either increase knowledge in the area of the degree or provide skills that can be applied in the occupational area of the degree.
Graduate Certificate/diploma (including post-graduate certificate/diploma)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ 'Graduate' or 'post-graduate' in program title or credential infers studies at a graduate level (masters) and, therefore, can only be used in the following circumstances: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ The institution already has consent to grant masters degrees in the same discipline under the Degree Authorization Act; and/or ▪ Credits from the credential are recognized for transfer by a British Columbia public research university towards a master's degree in the same field.
Certified	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Program must be recognized by a third-party certifying body. that is widely recognized by B.C. employers or discipline experts as the recognized certifying body for the field. Additionally, the program's materials and advertising must explicitly describe what the certifying body is, and how students achieve and maintain certification.

PTIRU may require a Subject Matter Expert to review the program to assist in making a determination as to whether the title appropriately represents the program's level of study/qualification.

- b) Whether the learning objectives of the program are appropriate for the career occupation for which the program is intended to prepare the student
- c) Whether the program leads to a credential
- d) Whether the following are appropriate to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program:
 - i. the number of hours of instruction⁴
 - ii. The maximum number of students that may be admitted in the program
 - iii. The method of delivery

Method of delivery includes the following:

- In-class instruction: 100% hours of coursework instruction are delivered in a classroom or other setting, where instructors share the same physical space as students.
- Distance education: 100% hours of coursework instruction, excluding work experience hours, if applicable, are delivered remotely from a BC location.
- Combined delivery: Hours of coursework instruction, excluding work experience hours if any, are provided through a combination of in-class and distance delivery. Program may include a work experience component.
 - Synchronous distance delivery means students attend classes virtually in 'real time' with instructors and classmates.
 - Asynchronous distance delivery means that students and instructors do not meet in 'real time'. There is no live video lecture portion of the program. Students in a program or course that is delivered asynchronously may move through assignments at their own pace, supported by online resources such as recorded lectures, reading material, assignments, and discussion groups.

Hours associated with the work experience are included in the calculation of the total hours of instruction (duration) of a program. However, the hours of the work experience should not be considered when determining the method of delivery of a program.

For all programs that are provided wholly or in part via distance education, the student enrolment contract must disclose:

- Whether the distance education portion of the program is synchronous or asynchronous.
- If more than one type of delivery method is employed, the method of delivery for each course. If a course employs more than one delivery method, the requirements for in-class and synchronous attendance must be clearly outlined.

New standards apply to programs where the method of delivery includes distance education and/or combined delivery. See Section 3.2.8 for more information.

⁴ Hours of instruction do not include homework hours.

- iv. the order in which courses are provided
- v. the equipment and facilities the institution uses to provide the program⁵

For example, a nursing program may require the following equipment to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program:

- Hospital beds
- Mannequins

An example of facilities for a nursing program would include practical work areas.

A Learning Objectives Guide is available in Appendix 6 and in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab of the PTIRU website at: <https://www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca/form-library>.

- vi. the student intake model

An intake model is either:

- Continuous intake, where students are continuously admitted throughout the program, or
- Intermittent intake, where students are admitted into a program at specific times.

In a continuous intake model, a student may start at any time. This may be appropriate for self-paced learning, distance delivery using asynchronous teaching methods, or for language training.

In an intermittent model, a student may start only at specific points in the program. It is the appropriate model for most programs, including distance delivery using synchronous teaching methods.

Many intermittent intake programs have a single intake point with all students starting together. Some have multiple specific intake points, e.g. at the start of each course, or at the start of each term. Multiple intermittent intake starting points work for programs in which courses or course blocks may be taken in any order.

Note that PTIRU's definition of continuous intake differs from the StudentAid BC definition of "continuous entry" (see the StudentAid BC Administration Manual for more information).

- vii. the course outline, which includes:
 - the learning objectives of the course
 - a list of required course materials
 - a description of the method of evaluation used to assess student performance in the course
 - the requirements that a student must meet to complete the course, and
 - the teaching methods used in the course.

⁵ Institutions may be requested to provide floorplans and/or photographs.

viii. the program outline, which includes:

- the title of the program
- the learning objectives of the program
- the admission requirements for the program
- a description of the method of evaluation used to assess a student if there is an evaluation in addition to the one included in a course outline that is part of the program
- the requirements that a student must meet to complete the program
- a list of the titles of the courses that are part of the program
- the number of hours of instruction for each work experience component of the program
- in respect of career-related programs of instruction, the career occupation for which the program prepares a student.

The methods of evaluation must be appropriate to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program.

- e) The activities that the student will undertake during work experience components, if any
- f) Whether the course materials are relevant to and adequate for the program and in the language in which the program is provided, or in a language appropriate for the program
- g) Whether the institution has a work experience policy that meets the standards, if the program includes work experience
- h) Whether the institution contracts with another entity to provide a portion of the program
- i) For Class A programs at designated/interim designated, the program evaluation, if any
- j) Any other information or records required by the registrar

Course materials include textbooks, e-books, equipment, and uniforms. In instances where program materials are publicly available, students are not required to purchase books, e-resources, supplies or equipment directly from the institution or any other specific source.

Decision

- If the registrar approves the program, the institution will be notified and the program will be added to the Online Directory. For more on the Online Directory, see Section 9.1.
- If approval is denied, the registrar will provide reasons. The institution may submit a new application at any time.

Institutions must have ownership or usage rights for the curriculum for as long as the program is delivered.

Institutions must directly deliver at least 50% of the hours of instruction of the program, not including work experience.

Admission Requirements

What is acceptable?

Admission requirements are those requirements necessary for students to be admitted into a program, including language proficiency requirements. They must be appropriate to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program. They may differ from the requirements for participating in the work experience component of the program.

An Admission Requirements guide is available in Appendix 7 and in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab of the PTIRU website at: <https://www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca/form-library>.

Examples of acceptable admission requirements include:

- Language proficiency to a specified broadly accepted standard, such as IELTS (all tests to be accepted, with a minimum score for each, much be specified; 'or equivalent' is not acceptable)
- Prior education such as a provincially recognized high school course
- Current registration, certification or licensure in a field such as a private pilot or registered counsellor
- Assessment through an interview, portfolio review or audition, to a specified standard

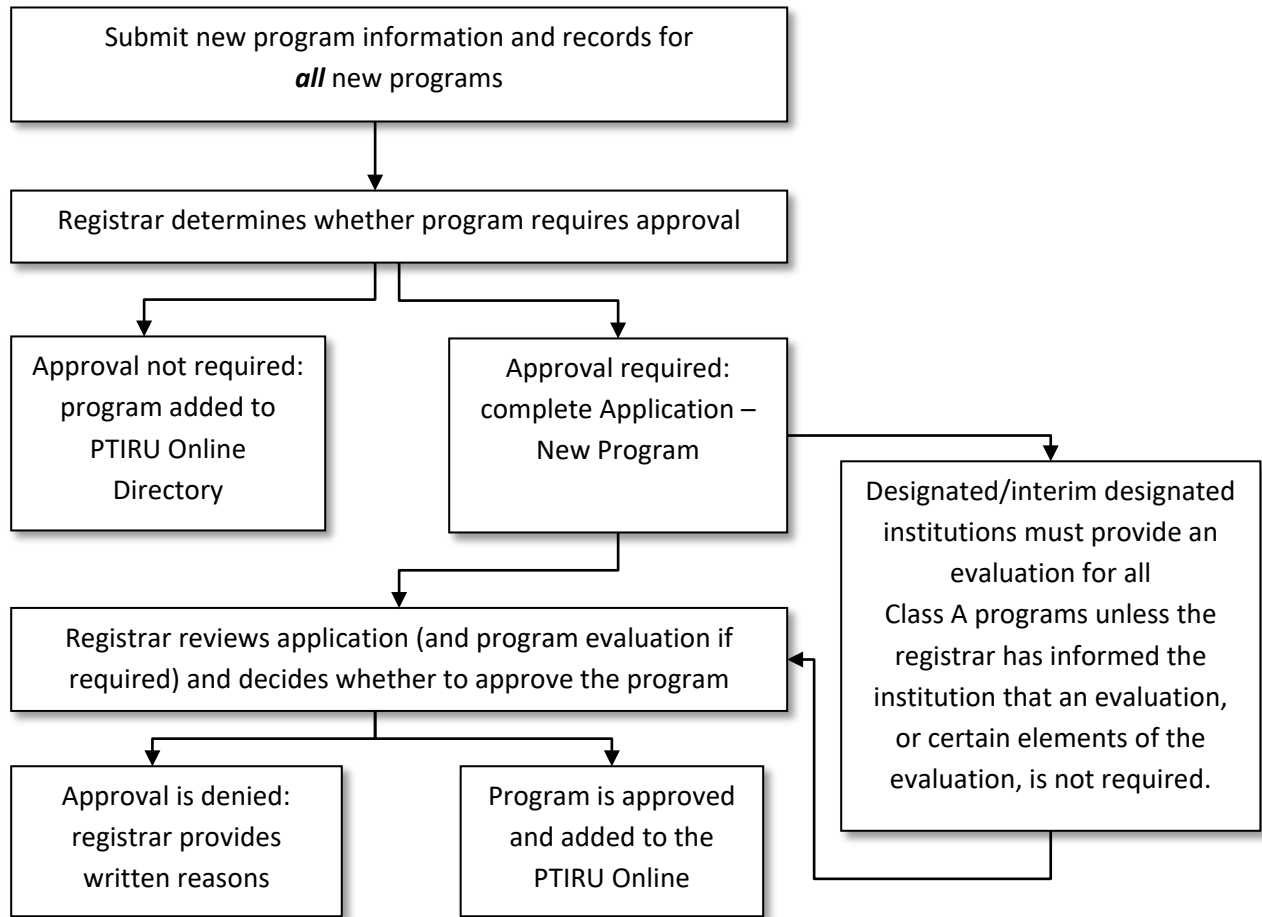

The following are not admission requirements:

- Completion of an application form
- Payment of an application fee
- Parental signature for minors
- Access to or ownership of specialized equipment

How to assess if admission requirements are met?

Institutions must use standardized criteria and testing to assess whether prospective students meet admission requirements related to language proficiency. For example, an institution may use the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) to assess language proficiency or require evidence the student has completed a provincially recognized high school academic course. Institution developed (in-house) English language tests are not permitted and cannot be used to evaluate whether a student meets the language proficiency requirement(s) as part of a program's admission requirements. For more information, see Appendix 7: Admission Requirements Guide and Appendix 8: Language Proficiency Guide.

Program Approval - Application Process Overview

Institutions must prominently identify in their publications, including websites, whether a program has been approved by the registrar.

For each Class A or B program, institutions must list the following information in a prominent place on their websites:

- Admission requirements
- Tuition and related fees
- Whether the program leads to an occupation that is regulated
- If the program leads to an occupation that is regulated, a link to the website of the regulator
- The career occupations for which the program is intended to prepare the students.

Note that institutions applying for a designation certificate must meet the following additional requirements:

- Have students enrolled in at least 50% of their approved programs – either currently or at some point in the one-year period that ends on the expiry date included in the institution’s current certificate.
- Offer at least one Class A or Class C program (does not apply to regulatory body institution class).⁶
- If the institution does not yet hold a designation certificate (ie an interim-designated institution), have provided 100% of the hours of instruction of at least 50% of its approved programs of instruction to at least 5 students (does not apply to institutions in the regulatory body institution class).

Effective January 1, 2026 for institutions that hold a designation certificate.

We recommend you revise your program offerings in order to meet these requirements. If you no longer offer a program, you must notify PTIRU to ensure that we do not take those programs into account when determining whether you meet the requirements.

2.5 New program application fees

Institutions must pay the following fees when submitting a New Program Approval application:

Program class	New program application fee
Class A	$2,000
Class B	$1,000
Class C	$1,000
Approval not required	$400

2.6 Program Eligibility for StudentAid BC

As part of the program approval process, designated institutions can also apply for eligibility with StudentAid BC (SABC) for that program. PTIRU forwards information about approved programs directly to SABC, however for the program to be evaluated for SABC eligibility, designated institutions must follow the procedures set out in Chapter 2: Program Eligibility Application Procedure of the StudentAid BC Policy Manual, available at <https://studentaidbc.ca/institution-officials>.

⁶ Does not apply to an institution if all of the approved programs offered by the institution are Class B programs that are designated under section 13 of the Skilled Trades BC Act as either an accredited program or a recognized program.

Chapter 3: Maintaining compliance

This section of the manual supports:

- Sections 13-15 of the Private Training Act
- Sections 15-48 and 56-60 of the Private Training Regulation

Certified institutions must, on a continuous basis:

- Meet all the requirements for their certificates, including any condition attached
- Maintain the financial security, if any, required by the registrar (see Chapter 8)
- Comply with all relevant compliance standards (see Section 3.2)
- Offer at least one approved program (see Chapter 2)
- Fulfill all reporting requirements (see Chapter 6)
- Notify the registrar before making certain changes (see Chapter 3)
- Notify the registrar and receive consent before making certain changes (see Chapter 3)
- Maintain compliance with all applicable local, provincial and federal enactments related to operation or administration of the institution
- Pay the applicable fees and payments to the Fund (see Section 7.2)

3.1 Making changes

There are three types of changes:

- changes requiring notification only. Institution may not implement these changes without first notifying the registrar;
- changes requiring notification and PTIRU consent before implementation;
- changes that must be reported as soon as practicable following the change.

When providing materials to PTIRU, please ensure they can be opened and edited freely.

Do not send materials that are password protected or otherwise secured.

3.1.1 Changes requiring notification only (consent not required)

60-day Notice – Fiscal Year

Institution must notify PTIRU in writing at least 60 days before changes to:

- the fiscal year established by an institution ($750 fee).

Changing fiscal year

Certificate expiry and deadlines for reporting are tied to the institution's fiscal year. A change in fiscal year will, therefore, have a significant impact and must be reported in writing at least 60 days before the change.

It also requires prior approval from the Canada Revenue Agency. For more information go to www.cra-arc.gc.ca/

14-day Notice

Institution must notify PTIRU in writing at least 14 days before changes to:

- tuition or related fees of an approved program
- an approved program from full time to part time, or part time to full time
- the list of programs offered (program deletions only)
- the maximum number of students the institution admits to an approved program
- the language of instruction of an approved program
- the number of hours of instruction⁷ for each course that is part of an approved program
- information about the institution, including:
 - legal or operating name ($400 fee)
 - address for service

Program change impacting program class

If, following a program change, a Class B program now meets the threshold for a Class A program, the registrar may require the institution to submit a program evaluation.

⁷ Do not include homework hours when calculating hours of instruction.

Full and part time

In relation to an approved program:

- Full time means:

- Instructional time of 20 hours or more per week, or
- If the program leads to employment in a career occupation regulated by Transport Canada, the federal regulator, instructional time of 15 hours or more per week.

- Part time means:

- Instructional time of less than 20 hours per week, or
- If the program leads to employment in a career occupation regulated by Transport Canada, the federal regulator, instructional time of less than 15 hours per week.

7-day Notice – Change of Control

Institution must notify PTIRU in writing at least 7 days before any change of control of an institution.

For a company or extra provincial company, a change of control means a change in the major shareholder (a shareholder holding more than 50% of the voting shares).

For a partnership, a change of control means a change or alteration in the membership of the firm.

Certificates are not transferrable. For a change in ownership, see Section 3.1.7 of this manual.

3.1.2 Changes requiring notification and consent

Institutions must obtain consent before making the following change:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> the location where or from which the program is provided. This applies to all locations, including locations from which the institution only offers programs not requiring approval.
Institution must obtain consent before making any of the following changes to an approved program:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> hours of instruction method of delivery (e.g. in-class, distance, or a combination of both) admission requirements the location where or from which the program is provided the program outline in relation to any of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> the title of the program the learning objectives the number of hours of instruction for each work experience component in respect of career-related programs, the career occupation for which the program prepares a student

Institution must notify PTIRU as soon as practicable of the following changes:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> change required by a third-party regulator in relation to an approved program that leads to a regulated occupation, that may reasonably be expected to have an adverse effect on students

Action Required by a Regulator

Institutions must provide a copy of any correspondence between the regulator and an institution about a matter that may reasonably be expected to have an adverse effect on students.

Varying reporting requirements apply to specific types of corporate structures:

Institution must notify PTIRU as soon as practicable of the following changes:
If the institution is:	It must report changes in:
A company	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> shareholders, holding more than 10% of shares that carry the right to vote at general meetings, other than a change in major shareholder (see Section 3.1.1).

3.1.4 Fees for changes

Fees for changes are detailed in Section 7.1.

3.1.5 Notification process

All change notifications must be made through the application forms on the Forms, Templates and Resources page of the PTIRU website. There are three applicable application forms:

- Application – Program Change
- Application – Add or Close a Location
- Application – Institution and Contact Change

Email the completed application along with all required records to PTI@gov.bc.ca.

Did you know that you can access all program information listed with PTIRU for your institution on the PTIRU Portal?

- To view program information, select “view my current programs” on the PTIRU Portal
- You should periodically review program information in your enrolment contracts, your website, and in your advertising to ensure that it is consistent with the information listed with PTIRU

For each change planned, institutions may be asked to provide information and describe:

- Any anticipated adverse effects on students
- Steps the institution will take to address these effects

PTIRU may request additional information and/or records.

If no consent is required, PTIRU will update the Online Directory, if necessary.

Where consent is required, PTIRU will:

- Notify the institution whether consent has been granted
- Update the Online Directory, if necessary

It will take a minimum of 12 weeks to process complete applications for changes requiring consent. Incomplete applications will not be processed and will need to be resubmitted by the institution. The registrar will provide reasons if consent is denied.

3.1.6 Ceasing operations at one or more locations

Any institution ceasing operations at one or more certified locations must notify PTIRU at least 14 days before surrendering the certificate(s).

If the institution ceases operations at all certified locations, it must transfer records for all students enrolled in approved programs to the registrar within 48 hours.

If at the time the institution surrenders its certificate(s) students have not yet completed their approved programs, they may file claims on the Fund. The institution will be required to reimburse the Fund for any payments made as a result of successful student claims.

If you are considering a complete cessation of operations, please contact PTIRU to discuss. Advance notice will help ensure a smooth transition for students affected by the closure.

3.1.7 Change of ownership

There are two types of change of ownership: asset purchase and share purchase. Institutions should contact PTIRU to discuss their plans before proceeding with either type of change.

Asset purchase

Certificates are not transferrable or assignable (s. 7(7) of the Private Training Act). Following an asset purchase, a certified institution is required to surrender its certificate(s) and the new owner is required to submit a new application for registration or designation along with any associated fees. Waiting periods for processing vary and may take several months. Once a new certificate is issued, the new institution will be considered a Category 3 (see Chapter 6). Institutions applying for a designation certificate may be issued an interim designation certificate and will not be eligible for access to EQA or SABC.

Share purchase resulting in change of control

The registrar must be notified at least 7 days in advance of any change of control of an institution. There is a fee of $4,500 for a change of control.

For a company or extraprovincial company, a change of control means a change in the major shareholder (a shareholder holding more than 50% of the voting shares). For a partnership, a change of control means a change or alteration in the membership of the firm.

Institutions considering a change in fiscal year must notify the registrar at least 60 days in advance. They are also encouraged to contact PTIRU before the change is made to discuss implications.

3.2 Compliance standards

This section of the manual supports Sections 15-48 of the Private Training Regulation.

 - The individual responsible for making a determination in respect of a student complaint
 - The individual responsible for the reconsideration, if any, of the determination made
 - In case either individual identified above, as applicable, is absent or named in the complaint, the individual responsible for making a determination in respect of the student complaint.

- Ensures that a student who makes or is otherwise involved in a complaint is protected from retaliation by the institution
- Is provided to the student before the start date of the program

An institution may not charge a fee for using the dispute resolution policy it has established.

The institution must provide a copy of the grade appeal policy to each student before the start date of the program.

Respectful and Fair Treatment of Students Policy

Institutions must have a written policy that:

- Promotes the respectful and fair treatment of students.

Sexual Misconduct Policy

Institutions must have a written sexual misconduct policy that:

- Addresses sexual misconduct, including sexual misconduct prevention and responses to sexual misconduct
- Sets out procedures for the following:
 - Making a complaint of sexual misconduct involving a student
 - Making a report of sexual misconduct involving a student
 - Responding to a complaint of sexual misconduct involving a student
 - Responding to a report of sexual misconduct involving a student

- the threat to commit an act of sexual misconduct

Student Attendance Policy

Institutions must have a written Student Attendance Policy that includes:

- Minimum attendance requirements for students
- Consequences if a student does not meet the minimum requirements
- A process for a student to report an absence

Student Statement of Rights

Institutions must establish a statement that advises students of their rights in relation to the institution. The statement must:

- Be available in every language in which instruction of a program is provided at an institution location
- Be posted in a prominent place at each location the institution operates in every language in which instruction is provided at the institution location
- Together with a copy of the signed enrolment contract, be provided to the student as soon as practicable in every language in which instruction of an approved program will be provided

The statement must include, the following information, as applicable:

 - misled a student about a significant aspect of an approved program

Sample Students Statement of Rights

A sample Statement of Rights is available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab at:

<https://www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca/form-library>.

3.2.2 Fees and tuition for approved programs

Application and assessment fees

Institutions may not charge more than:

- $250 for a domestic student application fee (a registration fee is considered to be the same as an application fee)
- $500 for an international student application fee
- $250 for an assessment fee

Institutions may not charge for an initial letter of acceptance. Institutions may charge a fee for one or more additional letters of acceptance if the fee(s) charged for all additional letters of acceptance do not, in total, exceed $250.

Tuition

Institutions must list tuition and related fees for each Class A and B program in a prominent place on their website.

An institution must not accept more than $1,000 in cash for tuition or related fees payable by a student.

Aircraft Utilization Fees

Institutions must not charge a student more than $5,000 for aircraft utilization fees at any one time, and must not hold more than $5,000 in unused aircraft utilization fees for a student.

Aircraft utilization fees may not be used for any other purpose, such as for tuition or other related fees.

What is tuition?

Tuition is the total of the fees a student must pay in respect of a program.

Tuition does not include related fees:

- Administrative fees
- Application fees
- Assessment fees
- Fees charged for textbooks or other course materials (including equipment and uniforms)
- Aircraft utilization fees

The following fees are tuition, and, if charged, must be identified as such in the student enrolment contract:

- Co-op fees or any other fee relating to a work experience
- Fees for courses offered by a third party (i.e., WHMIS, Foodsafe, First Aid)
- Exam fees
- IT services
- Fees for the use of a lab or clinic
- Fees for a mandatory online learning management system

What are administrative fees?

Administrative fees may include:

- Non-sufficient funds (NSF) fees
- Copy of transcript or student record fees

Administrative fees may not include an institution's payment to the Fund.

Tuition Refund Policy

Institutions may not accept any tuition or related fees until they have provided a copy of the institution's Tuition Refund Policy to the student.

When a refund is due, an institution must provide it to the student within 30 days of:

- Receiving a notice of withdrawal from a student
- Receiving a copy of refusal of a study permit
- Providing a student with a notice of dismissal
- Receiving an order from the registrar to issue a refund because a student was admitted in an approved program without meeting the admission requirements.
- The program end date included in the enrolment contract, if an institution did not provide a work experience to a student within 30 days of the end date.
- The date on which the first 30% of the program would have been completed, if a student did not attend the first 30% of the program.

An updated Tuition Refund Policy – Approved Program Sample is available in the PTIRU Form Library.

If a refund is due, the student record must include evidence that the refund was issued, either in the form of a cancelled cheque or copy of a wire transfer.

The student records must also include a refund calculation.

An institution must refund fees charged for textbooks or other course materials, including equipment and uniforms, if the student does not receive these course materials and any of the following apply:

- The student provides a notice of withdrawal to the institution
- The institution provides a notice of dismissal to the student
- The student does not attend any of the first 30% of the hours of instruction of the program.

Refunds apply to the amount of tuition paid or payable, as applicable, under a student enrolment contract. For example: Student A paid an institution the full $5,000 owed under contract for a two-year program where the total tuition cost for the program was $10,000. If the student were entitled to a refund of 50% of tuition paid or payable, the refund due to the student would be $2,500.

If an institution offers discounts or rebates on tuition, such as a scholarship or bursary, refunds must be calculated based on the amount paid or payable by the student after the discount or rebate has been applied.

Only hours of instruction for which the student received an evaluation should be included in the calculation of a tuition refund. If a student completed a portion of a program for which they did not receive an evaluation, that portion should not be included in the calculation of the percentage of the program completed.

The institution must pay the student within 30 days of receiving a notice of withdrawal or a copy of refusal of a study permit, as applicable.

3.2.4 Work experience

Institutions may only offer work experience of a type specified below.

Clinical placement:

- Leads to employment in a health-related career,
- Involves no more than 12 students being supervised by one instructor, and
- Consists of no more than 50% of the total hours of instruction.

Cooperative placement:

- Consists of no more than 50% of the total hours of instruction, and
- Provides a payment to the student.

Preceptorship:

- In which one student is supervised by one preceptor (an individual qualified to practice in the health field), and
- Consists of no more than 10% of the total hours of instruction.

Practicum:

- Consists of no more than 20% of the hours of instruction, and
- Does not provide a payment to the student.

Two or more work experience components together must not consist of more than 50% of the hours of instruction.

These limits on hours of instruction may only be exceeded if required by a third party regulator.

Work Experience guide

A Work Experience guide is available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab of the PTIRU website at: <https://www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca/form-library>.

Institutions offering work experience must:

- Have a written Work Experience Policy that includes:
 - The process by which a student is placed in the work experience
 - The process by which a student is evaluated
 - The intervals at which the work experience will be monitored
 - The requirements for participation in the work experience
 - The number of hours of instruction in the work experience
 - Identification of the work experience as a clinical placement, cooperative placement, practicum or preceptorship
- Provide a copy of the Work Experience Policy to the student before the start date of the program
- Sign an agreement with the host organization and the student that describes:
 - The respective responsibilities of the host organization, the institution and the student
 - The work experience activities the student will undertake
- Provide a copy of the agreement to the student before the work experience starts
- Ensure that the work experience:
 - Is supervised by someone qualified in a relevant career occupation and employed or retained by the host organization
 - Includes activities directly related to the learning objectives of the program or meets the requirements of a regulatory body for that career occupation
 - Consists of no more than the hours of instruction for a clinical placement, cooperative placement, practicum or preceptorship, as applicable – except where a higher number of hours is required by a regulatory body for that career occupation, such as Transport Canada
 - Includes regular written evaluations of the student
 - Is provided before the program ends
- Monitor the student during the work experience placement including reviewing whether the student is attending and meeting the learning objectives of the program

Examples of work experience requirements

- Minimum academic achievement level
- Criminal record check
- Medical testing

‘Regular’ written evaluations promote more opportunities for students to receive feedback and achieve better outcomes. The frequency of evaluations should be appropriate to the length of the work experience and allow students to understand whether they are meeting the learning objectives of the program.

Student enrolment contracts must include the following information related to work experience:

- The requirements for participation in the work experience
- An estimate of the costs for a student to complete the work experience, if any
- The geographic area or region of the province where the work experience will be provided
- The date or dates on which the institution plans to provide the work experience
- The number of hours of instruction of the work experience

Work experience

Institutions providing a work experience placement as part of an approved program are required to comply with the following:

- Any fee charged to a student in relation to a work experience component – including a placement fee – is considered tuition and must be listed in the student enrolment contract as tuition.
- Institutions are responsible for finding and securing work experience placements for students if a work experience is a required element of a program. While a student may be encouraged to find their own placement, institutions are ultimately responsible for ensuring an adequate availability of placements.
- Institutions are not expected to accommodate a student who refuses, for no valid reason, a work experience placement that meets PTIRU's work experience standards.

If the institution fails to provide the work experience within 30 days of the contract end date, it must refund tuition and related fees, other than application fees, unless the registrar determines that the institution was prevented from providing the work experience by circumstances beyond its control.

3.2.5 Institution's Website

The institutions' website must comply with the following:

- Provide accurate and current information.
- Include in a prominent place a link to the PTIRU website at www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca.
- Include in a prominent place the institution's tuition refund policy.
- Include in a prominent place the institution's Sexual Misconduct Policy.
- Include in a prominent place the institution's Dispute Resolution Policy.
- If an institution offers a Class A or B program, in a prominent place on its website list the following:
 - the admission requirements for the program
 - the amount of tuition and related fees for the program
 - whether the program leads to employment in a career occupation regulated by a regulator
 - if the program leads to an occupation that is regulated, a link to the website of the regulator

Program information, including title of the program, tuition and admission requirements, must match what is listed with PTIRU.

- the career occupation(s) for which the program prepares students.
- Ensure that it does not offer (i.e. advertise) a program that requires approval until the institution has submitted basic program information to PTIRU as required under Section 2.3, Step 1
- Must prominently identify whether a program has been approved by the registrar.

For programs that require approval, the following wording is suggested: “This program has been approved by the Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills”.

For programs that do not require approval, the following wording is suggested: “This program does not require approval by the Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills. As such, PTIRU did not review this program”.

For language programs that do not require approval, the following wording is suggested: “Students who enroll in a language program which is six months or less in duration or for which tuition is less than $4,000 may not make a claim against the Student Tuition Protection Fund, which is managed by the Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills. Further, this language program may not have been reviewed or approved by PTIRU.”

3.2.6 Admission Requirements

The following standards apply:

- Admission requirements are those requirements necessary for students to be admitted into a program.
- Admission requirements, including language proficiency requirements, must be appropriate to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program. They may differ from the requirements for participating in the work experience component of the program.
- Institutions must not enrol students that do not meet admission requirements for the program.
- Institutions must keep evidence in the student record that the student has met the admission requirements for the program.

The registrar may order the institution to refund tuition and all related fees if a student was enrolled without having met the admission requirements for the program and the student did not misrepresent their knowledge or skills.

Admission requirements for Class A and Class B programs must include a language proficiency requirement (LPR), regardless of the program’s language(s) of instruction. Language requirements should be at a sufficient level for students to understand and discuss, in speech and in writing, the level and complexity of the educational material.

English language proficiency requirements must include language tests that are broadly recognized as a standardized test (e.g., TOEFL, IELTS) and that are conducted by a reputable third party. Language proficiency tests for programs delivered in a language other than English will be assessed on a case-by-case basis.

Institutions will no longer be permitted to use in-house language assessments as a substitute for standardized testing.

Student records must contain evidence of language proficiency at the level required by the institution's admission requirements.

For more information, see Appendix 7: Admission Requirements Guide and Appendix 8: Language Proficiency Requirements Guide.

3.2.7 Program delivery

Institutions must ensure that the equipment and facilities the institution uses to provide all programs, including those that do not require approval, enable students to meet the learning objectives of the programs. This means that the institution must be able to accommodate all students enrolled in programs delivered entirely in-class as well as students enrolled in a combined delivery program who attend specific courses in-class.

Effective January 1, 2026, institutions must ensure that their facilities include dedicated spaces that are available to international students who have been issued study permits, and are accessible by those students outside the hours of instruction of an approved program, for the purpose of study or socializing.

In relation to approved programs, institutions must:

- Deliver programs as approved
- Report and/or obtain consent before making certain changes to approved programs
- Apply admission requirements consistently to all applicants
- Ensure that the program title is consistent with the learning objectives of the program
- Ensure that the learning objectives for a program are appropriate to and adequate for the career occupation for which the program is intended to prepare students
- Maintain course outlines, a curriculum and a program outline that enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program
- Ensure the methods of evaluation are appropriate to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program
- Ensure that course materials are provided to students before or at the time the course materials are required for the program
- Ensure that students are provided with regular access to the instructors of the program

“Regular access to the instructors” depends on the nature of the program or course and its intended outcomes. For a program that is practical and requires frequent feedback or student-instructor interactions, “regular” could mean daily access. For a more theoretical course, “regular” might be interpreted as weekly interactions.

- Ensure the institution has ownership or usage rights of curriculum for the duration of the program
- Ensure that the following enable students to meet the learning objectives for the program:
 - the number of hours of instruction
 - the number of students enrolled
 - the method of delivery
 - the order in which courses are provided
 - the equipment and facilities the institution uses to provide the program
 - the student intake model (intermittent intakes or continuous admission)
 - teaching methods
- Ensure that students are provided with a copy of the course outline on the first day of a course
- Ensure that course materials are provided to students before or at the time the course materials are required for the purposes of the program.
- Institutions also must ensure that the course materials provided to students are relevant to and adequate for the program and made available in advance of when they are required. For electronic course materials (e.g., e-books), institutions must ensure students have access to the materials for

Curriculum means a plan that sets out learning activities and how they meet the learning objectives of a program.

For example, a nursing program may require the following equipment to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program:

- Hospital beds
- Mannequins

An example of facilities for a nursing program would include practical work areas.

A Learning Objectives guide is available in Appendix 6 or in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab of the PTIRU website at <https://www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca/form-library>.

the full duration of the program.

- For Class A and Class B programs, ensure that course materials are in the language in which the program is provided
- For Class C programs, ensure that the course materials are in a language appropriate to the program
- If the program has 40 or more hours of instruction, ensure that students receive written evaluations regularly, and at least once before 30% of the hours of instruction have been provided
- Provide to students copies of the following prior to the start date of the program:
 - Dispute Resolution Policy
 - Student Dismissal Policy
 - Student Grade Appeal Policy
 - Respectful and Fair Treatment of Students Policy)
 - Sexual Misconduct Policy
 - Student Attendance Policy

These standards apply to all institutions.

- Statement of Student Rights – must be provided to the student together with a copy of the student enrolment contract
- Work Experience Policy (if applicable)
- Provide a copy of the institution's Tuition Refund Policy before accepting any tuition or related fees (including application fees)
- Ensure the institution directly provides over 50% of the hours of instruction of the program, except as they relate to work experience
- For Class A and Class B programs leading to employment in regulated fields such as health care and transportation, maintain evidence that the requirements of the third party regulator are met

3.2.8 Distance and Combined Delivery Programs

Where the method of delivery of a PTIRU approved program includes distance education and/or combined delivery:

- For all programs that are provided wholly or in part via distance education, the student enrolment contract must disclose:
 - i. Whether the distance education portion of the program is synchronous or asynchronous.
 - ii. If more than one type of delivery method is employed, the method of delivery for each course. If a course employs more than one delivery method, the requirements for in-class and synchronous attendance must be clearly outlined.
- Any program with more than 20% of the hours of instruction (not including work experience) delivered via distance education must employ a Learning Management System (LMS)⁸. The system must:
 - i. Be available 24/7 (subject to maintenance requirements).
 - ii. Ensure that students have reasonable access to technical support for the system throughout the program.
 - iii. Have security features to protect personal information.
 - iv. Have a system to verify student identity.
- Asynchronous delivery must have a system that enables the institution to track and confirm a student's progress.

Effective January 1, 2025, an institution must not enrol an international student who has a study permit in an approved program where 50% or more of the hours of instruction is provided through distance education, other than hours of instruction for a work experience.

Institutions must:

- Ensure the integrity of all assessments
- Make equipment, software, and materials (i.e., books, supplies) – in good working order – available to students prior to the start of the course where they are required.
- Ensure students have regular access to the instructor of the program.

3.2.9 Instructors, Senior Educational Administrator and Student Support

Institutions must have a current organizational chart. Positions referenced in student policies should appear on the organization chart.

Institutions must have adequate staffing and an adequate number of qualified instructors. Each position title must accurately reflect the main job duties.

Instructors

Minimum Instructor Qualifications:

An instructor of a vocational or practical course must have:

- A certificate, diploma or post-secondary degree relevant to the subject matter and two years of full time work experience in a career occupation relevant to the subject matter of the course, or
- 10 years of full time work experience in a career occupation relevant to the subject matter of the course.

Effective January 1, 2026, an instructor of a vocational or practical course who provides 20% or more of the hours of instruction of an approved program, other than the hours of instruction for a work experience component, must complete at least 5 hours of professional development each year in either an area relevant to the subject matter of the program or instructional delivery, design, assessment, or evaluation.

Experience as an instructor is not considered to be “work experience in a career occupation relevant to the subject matter of the course.”

An instructor of a language course, other than an Indigenous language course must have:

- A post-secondary degree in language instruction, or
- A certificate or diploma in language instruction and two years of full time work experience teaching a language, or
- 10 years of full time work experience teaching a language, or
- A certificate or diploma in language instruction and a post-secondary degree.

The instructor of an academic course, other than a language course or an Indigenous culture course, must have a relevant post-secondary degree in the subject area.

For programs leading to employment in a regulated career, where the regulator stipulates minimum instructor qualifications, the minimum instructor qualifications and professional development standards do not apply. Instead, instructors – including substitute instructors – must meet the standards set by the regulator.

Institutions may use substitute instructors who do not meet the minimum instructor qualifications – as long as they provide no more than 10% of the instruction hours for the program.

Instructor records

Institutions must keep a record for each instructor that includes evidence the instructor meets the required qualifications. Evidence may include current a current resume and copies of any credentials obtained by the instructor. At designated/interim designated institutions, the instructor record must also include a copy of each performance evaluation. The institution must keep instructor records for two years after an instructor leaves the institution.

Instructor performance evaluations

All instructors of approved programs at designated/interim designated institutions must have a written performance evaluation at least once every two years, conducted by the Senior Educational Administrator or an appropriately qualified delegate.

Senior Educational Administrator (SEA)

Designated/interim designated institutions must have a SEA who holds a degree, diploma, certificate or comparable education or work experience in adult education:

- Comparable education includes a credential in adult education, education related to learning theory, curriculum development, delivery of instruction or instructional strategies, evaluation of learning or technology/media enhanced learning.
- Comparable work experience must include at least two years of full time experience in the delivery of adult education instruction, development of curriculum and evaluation of learning.
- For an institution solely offering flight training programs, Flight Instructor Certification is acceptable for purposes of being an SEA .
- For an institution solely offering language programs, TESOL or Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults is acceptable for purposes of being an SEA.

The SEA is responsible for:

- Ensuring that the course outline\(s\), curriculum and program outline of an approved program are appropriate to the learning objectives of the program, and
- Overseeing a performance evaluation process for instructors

SEA records

Institutions must keep a record for its SEA that includes evidence the SEA meets the required qualifications. The institution must keep SEA records for two years after an SEA leaves the institution.

Student support

Designated/interim designated institutions must designate a staff member whose responsibility it is to provide students with information relating to the following:

- Student enrolment contract
- Program outline for each approved program
- Housing and transportation services for students

- Medical insurance, the Pharmacare program and similar government health care programs for students
- Child care services available to students
- Community and cultural services available to students, such as family support, addiction treatment and services for immigrants
- Available academic support, such as tutoring services, literacy support and library services
- Employment resources for students, including resources in relation to preparing a resume

3.2.10 Student enrolment contract

Institutions are required to sign a written contract with each student they enrol, on or before the program start date, unless the program is employer provided (meaning all students enrolled are funded by a single employer or third party that is not a public body). This applies to approved programs and programs not requiring approval.

The student enrolment contract must set out accurate information about the program. The institution must provide the student a copy of the signed enrolment contract as soon as practicable.

As part of the student enrollment contract, institutions must provide an itemized list of services and/or resources included in a program's course material fees, assessment fees, administrative fees, and other fees. For example, institutions must list the individual costs of each textbook, individual course materials, assessment fees, administrative fees, and other fees.

A student is considered enrolled at the point at which they sign a contract or pay tuition to an institution.

Contracts for approved programs must:

- Be written in a clear and comprehensible manner in not less than 10 point type
- Be for a term no longer than 12 months. If the program is longer than 12 months, a subsequent student enrolment contract can only be signed after 50% of the program's hours of instruction listed in the original contract have been provided.
- Include all required information (see Appendix 12)

The contract must be dated and signed by:

- The student or, if the student is under the age of 19, by a parent or legal guardian
- An individual who has legal authority to act on behalf of the institution

Contracts for programs that do not require approval must include:

- The start date of the program
- The amount of tuition and related fees for the program
- The refund policy. If there is no refund, the contract should make that clear.

- The following statement: “This program does not require approval by the Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills. As such, PTIRU did not review this program. Students may not file a claim against the Student Tuition Protection Fund in relation to this program.”

Fees and tuition refund for programs that do not require approval

An institution must refund all the tuition and related fees, other than application fees, for a program that has tuition of $4,000 or more and does not require approval if:

- The student does not attend the program, and
- The institution receives from the student a notice of withdrawal or a copy of refusal of a study permit no later than 30 days after the later of:
 - a) the start date of the program in the most recent letter of acceptance
 - b) the start date of the program in the enrolment contract

The institution must refund the student within 30 days of receiving a notice of withdrawal or a copy of refusal of a study permit, as applicable.

3.2.11 Student records

Institutions must keep an accurate and current record for each student enrolled in an approved program. The student record must include all the information listed in Appendix 13. A copy must be provided to the student, when requested, at a reasonable cost.

For Class A programs, institutions must retain student records for at least eight years after the following date, whichever is applicable:

- The date the student completes the program
- The date the institution delivers to the student a notice of dismissal
- The date the institution receives a notice of withdrawal

Designated/interim designated institutions must retain student records for Class B and Class C programs for at least three years after the following date, whichever is applicable:

- The date the student completes the program
- The date the institution delivers to the student a notice of dismissal
- The date the institution receives a notice of withdrawal

Record storage at the institution

Student records kept electronically must be:

- In a format that provides for copies of the student record to be made
- Backed up at least once a month
- Stored in a secure manner
- In a format that is not created using proprietary software
- Accessible, on request, by the registrar

Paper records must be stored securely in a location that is accessible, on request, by the registrar.

Archiving student records

Institutions offering Class A programs, other than programs that lead to employment in a career occupation regulated by Transport Canada, the federal regulator, must:

*Enter into an agreement with Cube Global or Datawitness (the approved archiving vendors) which stipulates that:

- Student records must be archived in a secure manner for 25 years from the date the record is provided to the third party, and
- The registrar must have access to the records on request.

Effective July 1, 2025, student records to be archived with PTIRU.

- Institutions must submit archived student records to PTIRU via the PTIRU Portal. Institutions must pay a fee of $8 for each student record submitted to the Registrar. Institutions will be invoiced for the archived student records annually as part of their re-certification cycle.
- * Once in effect, institutions will no longer archive records with a third-party vendor (Cube Global or Datawitness).

Provide the archived student record within 60 days of:

- The end date of the student enrolment contract, or
- The date the institution receives a notice of withdrawal, or
- The date the institution delivers to the student a notice of dismissal.

The archived record must be labeled by student name and personal education number, if any, and must include:

- A copy of the signed student enrolment contract,
- Any transcripts issued to the student by the institution, and
- A copy of any credential granted to the student by the institution.

Institutions should not archive records containing sensitive personal information such as unmasked credit card numbers (including the 3-to-4-digit security code found on the back of a credit card), social insurance numbers, bank account numbers, driver's licence numbers, permanent resident card numbers, or whether the student is receiving provincial income assistance. Scanned images showing a cheque, or any ID documentation should not be archived.

3.2.12 Prior learning assessment

Prior learning assessment is a process to determine if prior education or experience is equivalent to part of a program. Institutions that have such a process must ensure it is applied consistently to all students.

Prior learning must not be assessed as equivalent to more than 50% of the hours of instruction of a program unless:

- It is related to a program leading to an occupation that is regulated and the regulator provides that prior learning may be assessed as equivalent to more than 50% of the hours of instruction, or
- If an institution ceases to hold a certificate before a student can complete their approved program and another institution is appointed by the registrar to provide a comparable program.

3.2.13 Credentials

As soon as practicable after a student meets the requirements of an approved program, an institution must grant:

- For a Class A program, a certificate or diploma that confirms the completion of a career training program
- For a Class B or Class C program, a credential other than a career training credential

For Class A and B programs that start on or after January 1, 2026, an institution may only issue a diploma if the program would require at least 12 months to complete if a student was enrolled in the program full-time.

12 months of full-time study is considered equivalent to a minimum of 880 hours of study. Work experience hours count towards the 12-month requirement. Full-time is defined as instructional time of 20 hours or more per week, or 15 hours per week if the program leads to a career occupation regulated by Transport Canada.

Institutions must ensure that the intake model, order in which the courses are provided, and hours of instruction of the program all enable the student to meet the learning objectives of the program.

Programs must also meet program duration and credential standards established by applicable regulatory bodies.

3.2.14 Program Advisory Committee (PAC)

Designated/interim designated institutions must establish PACs to ensure Class A programs reflect current practice in the relevant career occupation(s). These PACs, which can be established for a single program or a group of programs, must consist of individuals who:

- Have experience working in relevant career occupations, and
- Are not related to the institution. This means the institution cannot directly or indirectly control or influence the person, and the person cannot control or influence the institution.

Each PAC must also include an institution staff member who serves as secretary.

PACs must meet on a regular basis – at least once every two years – and the institution must keep written records of PAC meetings for at least four years.

Note: This does not apply to programs leading to employment in a career occupation regulated by Transport Canada.

Chapter 4: Inspections and enforcement

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 28-46 of the Private Training Act
- Section 63 of the Private Training Regulation
- Section 11 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

4.1 Appointment of inspectors

The Private Training Act (PTA) allows inspections of all institutions, regardless of whether they are certified. Inspectors appointed by the registrar are authorized to inspect business premises during business hours without a warrant. On request, the inspector must present evidence of appointment.

Inspectors have the authority to:

- Observe the delivery of programs to students
- Interview students and staff
- Remove from the premises and retain a record or any other thing that may be required as evidence
- Question a person

The inspector will issue a receipt if any thing is removed from the premises.

4.2 Types of inspections

Inspections are conducted for the following purposes:

- Assessing new applications for registration or designation certificates
- Assessing whether an institution requires a certificate
- Determining compliance with the PTA and regulations, or with SABC or EQA requirements, including determining whether the certificate held by the institution should be suspended or cancelled
- Conducting new location or new site-specific program applications

The table below provides further information on the types of inspections and fees for each.

The registrar will normally determine whether an inspection is required during a certificate term at the time the certificate is issued.

1. Pre-certification (initial application)	Description and fees
Inspection conducted prior to the issuance of initial certificate.	Conducted by ministry staff and/or subject matter experts (SMEs) appointed as inspectors by the registrar Fees are included in the application fee
2. Designation Review	Description and fees
Designation Review conducted within one year of the registrar issuing a designation certificate for the first time	Conducted by ministry staff and/or SMEs appointed as inspectors by the registrar Fees: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • $2,500 per inspection, plus • $2,500 per inspector for the first day • $1,000 per inspector for each subsequent day
Subsequent Designation Reviews are conducted at least every seven years
3. Compliance	Description and fees
May be conducted at any time, usually for one or more of the following reasons: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The institution has a category 3 assignment (see Chapter 6 for details) • The institution has been certified for less than one year • The registrar has identified a possible compliance issue concerning the PTA, the regulations or SABC or EQA requirements • A follow-up visit is required to assess whether a compliance issue has been resolved • The institution is not certified and may be offering Class A programs. 	Conducted by ministry staff and/or SMEs appointed as inspectors by the registrar Fees are charged for follow-up inspections only as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • $100/hour for ministry staff • $200/hour for SME • $300/hour for a consultant with expertise in accounting

4.3 Process for inspections

Institutions must, within 24 hours of receiving notice of an inspection from PTIRU, post a notice in a prominent place at the location where the inspection is to be conducted and in a prominent place on the institution's website to provide students with the following information:

- Date and time of the inspection
- Location of the inspection
- The web address of PTIRU

4.3.1 Pre-certification inspection

Institutions applying for certification for the first time are inspected as part of the application process. The registrar will generally notify the institution of the date and time for the inspection.

4.3.2 Designation Review

The registrar will conduct a Designation Review:

- Within one year of initial designation
- Within seven years of the most recent Designation Review

Prior to the inspection, institutions will be required to submit a Designation Review Report. Institutions undergoing a Designation Review will be contacted directly by PTIRU to schedule an orientation meeting to discuss the Designation Review Report, process, and timelines.

The registrar will provide an estimate of fees for the inspection, based on the number and types of programs the institution offers. A date and time for the inspection will then be scheduled.

The institution will receive a copy of the inspection report and will be given an opportunity to respond.

4.3.3 Compliance inspection

Typically, the registrar provides notice for compliance inspections. However, the PTA provides authority to inspect an institution at any time, without advance notice.

The institution will receive a copy of the inspection report and will be given an opportunity to respond.

Fees may be charged for certain compliance inspections. See Section 7.1 for more information.

4.4 Enforcement

Tool	Implications for Institutions
Compliance order	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The institution must address any contraventions of the PTA or regulations identified in the compliance order by the specified deadline • Compliance orders are taken into consideration when determining an institution's category assignment. • Compliance orders may be published in the Online Directory

Chapter 5: Re-certification

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 4-10 of the Private Training Act
- Sections 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 of the Private Training Regulation
- Section 4 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

Institutions wishing to continue to operate must apply for re-certification annually at least 60 days before the expiry date on the institution's certificate.

At re-certification the registrar will:

- Assess whether the institution is meeting the requirements for a certificate
- Assign the institution to a category
- Determine whether security is required
- Determine the amount of payments to the Fund and fees payable
- Determine whether inspections will be required in the upcoming certificate term

Institutions will receive a notice in advance of their certificate expiry date, reminding them of the date to apply for re-certification and the requirements.

5.1 Certificate expiry

Certificates generally expire seven months after the end of the institution's fiscal year. Institutions must apply for re-certification annually at least 60 days before the expiry date included in the institution's certificate.

For example, for a fiscal year ending December 31, 2022:

- The certificate will expire on July 31, 2023
- The application for re-certification is due by May 31, 2023.

For a detailed explanation, see the Example Re-certification Timeline in Section 5.2.2.

Re-certification is not automatic.

Institutions must apply for re-certification. Otherwise, their current certificate will expire.

5.2 Applying for Re-certification

5.2.1 Application process

Application – 60 days before the current certificate expiry date.

Submit an application for re-certification through the PTIRU Portal. Select 'Apply for Re-certification' in the Certification section.

Update or confirm information in the Institution and Contacts sections of the form.

Pay any outstanding fees or payments to the Fund.

For a list of the information and records required with the application, see Appendix 15.

Starting January 1st, 2025, the student data report must be submitted for every 3-month period, within 30 days after the end of the 3-month period.

Quarterly reports of student data are to be provided as follows:

For period January 1st to March 31st	report due to the PTIRU by April 30th
For period April 1st to June 30th	report due to the PTIRU by July 31st
For period July 1st to September 30th	report due to the PTIRU by October 31st
For period October 1st to December 31st	report due to the PTIRU by January 31st

The information required is listed in Appendix 16.

Refer to PTIRU's Student Data Report Reference Guide available on the Forms, Templates and Resources page of the PTIRU website for more information about completing the report. The Guide will be updated by January 1, 2025.

Financial reporting – five months after the institution fiscal year end

Submit financial statements for the previous fiscal year via the PTIRU Portal. Click on the Document Upload tab under Document Type, select Financial Statements, then select the file to upload and submit. See Section 5.5 below for details regarding reporting requirements for financial statements.

5.2.2 Application process

The registrar will assess the application and determine:

- Whether the institution meets the requirements for a certificate, and if so, what type of certificate
- Whether financial security is required, and if so, the amount
- The institution's category assignment

See Section 1.3 for the full list of requirements for a certificate.

Applying for Re-certification of a Designation Certificate?

Designated institutions must have students enrolled in at least 50% of their approved programs – either currently or at some point in the one-year period that ends on the expiry date included in the institution's current certificate.

Example Re-certification Timeline

Starting January 1st, 2025, the student data report must be submitted for every 3-month period, within 30 days after the end of the 3-month period. The data included in these reports will be used to as part of the re-certification assessment.

5.3 Receiving a certificate, invoice and Designation Mark

Certificate

Once an institution has met the requirements, including provision of security (if required), the registrar will issue a certificate for each institution location.

The certificate must be printed and prominently displayed at each location for which a certificate is issued. Certificates must remain posted until they expire, or are surrendered or cancelled.

Invoice

Along with the certificate(s), the institution will receive an invoice for:

- Flat rate fees
- Graduated fees
- Payments to the Fund

For more on fees and payments to the Fund, see Chapter 7.

Designation Marks (designated institutions only)

The B.C. PTIRU Designation Certification Mark (“the Marks”) is available to designated institutions. Only designated institutions may use the Marks; there is no corresponding mark for registered or interim designated institutions. PTIRU will legally enforce proper use of the Marks.

When using the Marks, the institution must provide “Notice of Licence” (Section 8 of the Designation Certification Marks Terms of Use Agreement). This means the Marks must be accompanied by the following statement: “DESIGNATED B.C. PRIVATE TRAINING INSTITUTIONS REGULATORY UNIT & Shield Design mark is a certification mark owned by the Government of British Columbia and used under licence.”

Designated institutions that want to use the Mark must sign and return the Designation Certification Marks Terms of Use Agreement, included in this manual at Appendix 22 and available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab at www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca. Completed Terms of Use Agreements should be sent to PTI@gov.bc.ca.

PTIRU will then email the Marks files to the institution.

The Marks may not be used before the signed Terms of Use Agreement is in place.

Updated Designation Marks will be available after January 1, 2025.

5.4 EQA and StudentAid BC designations

Designated institutions can apply for Education Quality Assurance (EQA) and StudentAid BC (SABC) designations. Institutions must meet additional requirements for EQA and SABC designations and applications will be assessed by EQA and SABC program staff.

- EQA is the British Columbia brand for quality post-secondary education. It is also a requirement for inclusion on the federal list of Designated Learning Institutions to host international students on study permits. For all policy and information related to EQA, go to <http://www2.gov.bc.ca/gov/content/education-training/post-secondary-education/institution-resources-administration/education-quality-assurance>. For more on the federal Designated Learning Institutions list, go to www.cic.gc.ca/english/study/study-institutions-list.asp.
- SABC designation allows institutions to enrol students who want to apply for financial assistance through StudentAid BC. For all policy and information related to SABC, go to www.studentaidBC.ca/institution-officials.

Planning to enrol international students?

International students who want to enrol in a program longer than six months require study permits from the Federal Government under the International Student Program. For more information on study permits, go to www.cic.gc.ca/english/study/study.asp.

Note: Only designated institutions that also hold EQA designation may enrol international students on study permits. First time applicants will not be issued a designation certificate. One of the requirements for a designation certificate is to have held a certificate for two years.

The Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills announced on January 29, 2024, that the Province of British Columbia is implementing a two-year moratorium, until February 2026, on new EQA designations, effective immediately. New institutions will not have access to the federal Designated Learning Institutions list to recruit international students until the moratorium ends. Current institutions may renew their EQA designation during this period.

5.5 Reporting requirements – financial statements

New financial reporting requirements for certified institutions are effective July 1, 2026. See Appendix 17 for more on financial reporting requirements.

Institutions are notified of financial reporting requirements when the certificate is issued. Financial statements for the previous fiscal year are due no later than five months after fiscal year end.

Reporting requirements are based on tuition from approved programs earned in the previous fiscal year and the category assigned to the institution. For more on reporting requirements, see Appendix 17

The types of financial reporting are:

- Audited Financial Statement
- Review Engagement Report
- Notice to Reader (Compilation Engagement)

Preparation of financial statements

All financial statements must be prepared by a Chartered Professional Accountant (CPA) in good standing with the appropriate license from the Chartered Professional Accountants of BC.

5.6 Delays due to missing information

If an institution submits an application for re-certification 60 days before the expiry date on its current certificate, but does not provide student data and financial statements by the required due date:

The current certificate will remain valid until the registrar issues a new certificate or the institution receives the registrar's decision refusing to issue a certificate. However, should the registrar issue a certificate after the expiry date of the current certificate, fees and payments to the Student Tuition Protection Fund will only be payable as a lump sum. The institution will not have the option of monthly payments.

5.7 Failure to apply for re-certification by deadline

If an institution does not apply for re-certification at least 60 days before the expiry date on its current certificate, the institution may still apply for re-certification. However, it may not be possible to process the application before the current certificate expires, in which case the certificate will expire.

Chapter 6: Category assignment

This chapter of the manual supports Sections 30-45 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation.

All institutions are assigned to a category 1, 2 or 3 which is a factor in determining:

- Graduated fees
- Payments to the Fund
- Frequency of compliance inspections
- Type of financial reporting requirements
- Whether security is required

As described below, category assignment may be automatic or may involve assessment against a list of criteria.

6.1 Automatic category assignment

Some institutions, including those seeking certification for the first time, will be assigned automatically to a category, as shown in the table below.

Description of institution	Automatic category assignment
The institution has continuously held a certificate for less than two years	Category 3
The registrar has suspended any of the certificates issued to the institution within the past two years	Category 3
The institution is in the Indigenous institution class (operated by a First Nation and/or Indigenous society/corporation)	Category 1

6.2 Category assessment

For institutions not automatically assigned to a category, the registrar will conduct an assessment:

When	Why	Assessment Criteria
After the registrar issues a certificate	A factor in determining graduated fees, payments to the Fund, frequency of compliance inspections and type of reporting requirements	Criteria 1-10 in Section 6.2.1 below will be used for institutions issued a registration or interim designation certificate Criteria 1-12 in Section 6.2.1 below will be used for institutions issued a designation certificate

6.2.1 Assessment criteria

Category ratings are based on the criteria shown in the table below. For the calculations for each criterion, see Appendix 18.

Assessment Criteria	Category 1	Category 2	Category 3
Criteria for all institutions:
1. Student withdrawal ¹	Less than 3%	3% to 13%	More than 13%

11. StudentAid BC support ²	40% or less	41% to 60%	More than 60%
12. International student enrolment ¹	Less than 50%	50% to 70%	70% or more

¹ Financial information for this criterion will be taken from the most recent financial statement provided by the institution.

² Data for this criterion will be taken from Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills data sources.

6.2.2 Determining category assignment

The tables below show how the assessment criteria are used to determine the category assignment for an institution.

For institutions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • applying for a registration certificate, or • holding a registration or interim designation certificate
Assessment criteria	Category assignment
If the institution has seven or more Category 1 criteria ratings	Category 1
If the institution has five or six Category 1 criteria ratings	Category 2
If the institution has four or less Category 1 criteria ratings	Category 3

Institutions holding or applying for a designation certificate
Assessment criteria	Category assignment
If the institution has eight or more Category 1 criteria ratings	Category 1
If the institution has six or seven Category 1 criteria ratings	Category 2
If the institution has five or less Category 1 criteria ratings	Category 3

Chapter 7: Fees and payments to the Fund

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 6, 7, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22, 47, 50, 54 and 64 of the Private Training Act
- Sections 3-13 and 15-26 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

All institutions pay:

- Transaction fees, which are charged on a per-service basis
- Certificate term fees and payments, which are charged in relation to the certificate held by an institution

Certificate term fees and payments consist of:

- Flat rate fees
- Graduated fees
- Payments to the Fund

Institutions are invoiced for flat rate fees, graduated fees and payments to the Fund when the registrar issues the certificate.

PTIRU operates on a cost-recovery model.

As described in the sections below, certificate term fees and payments are based on factors such as annual tuition revenue, certification status, years certified and category assignment.

Definition: Annual tuition revenue

Annual tuition revenue is defined as the total tuition earned in respect of approved programs during the previous fiscal year. This amount is included in an institution's financial statements.

For first time applicants, the annual tuition revenue is the institution's estimate of what it will earn in respect of approved programs in the institution's current fiscal. This amount is included in the institution's business plan.

7.2 Certificate term fees and payments

Certificate term fees and payments consist of:

- Flat rate fees
- Graduated fees
- Payments to the Fund

7.2.1 Flat rate fees

Institutions applying for a certificate for the first time pay a flat rate fee of $119 per month for the term of their certificate. All fees must be paid in Canadian dollars.

Flat rate fees are based on annual tuition revenue, as shown in the table below.

Flat Rate Fees

Annual Tuition Revenue	Flat Rate Fees (per month of the certificate term)
Less than $25,000	$119
$25,000 to $49,999	$119
$50,000 to $99,999	$190
$100,000 to $349,999	$286

$7,500,000 to $10,000,000	$1,859
Greater than $10,000,000	$2,264

7.2.2 Graduated fees and payments to the Fund

Graduated fees and payments to the Fund are based on the following factors:

- The category assigned to the institution
- Number of years certified
- Type of certificate
- Annual tuition revenue
- Class of institution, if applicable

For certificates with a term of more or less than 12 months, fees and payments to the Fund are pro-rated.

Classes of institutions

As set out above, institutions may be assigned to one of four classes:

- Regulatory body institution class: institutions at which the only approved programs the institution provides or intends to provide are approved programs leading to careers regulated by Transport Canada or provincial health regulatory bodies.
- Language institution class: institutions at which the only approved programs the institution provides or intends to provide are:
 - Language programs assessed by, and meeting the standards of, a language assessment body independent of the institution
 - Class A or Class B programs that lead to employment in language instruction
- Indigenous institution class: institutions operated by a First Nation and/or society/corporation.

In order to be assigned to a class, an institution must provide evidence that they meet the requirements for the class. For example, a language institution must provide a copy of the assessment of standards conducted by an independent body.

Graduated Fees and Payments to the Fund – Other than Indigenous institution class

Institution Description	Period of Continuous Certification or Registration	Category Assignment	Percentage of annual tuition revenue payable to

Graduated Fees and Payments to the Fund – Indigenous institution class

Institution Class	Period of Continuous Certification or Registration	Category Assignment	Graduated Fees (% of annual tuition revenue)	Payments to the Fund
Indigenous institution class ³	n/a	Category 1 (automatic)	0.2%	$10.00

7.2.3 Reduced payments to the Fund

Debt ratio and current ratio are key measures of financial stability, so institutions with ratios below certain levels make lower payments to the Fund, as shown in the table below.

These discounts are not cumulative and do not apply to institutions assigned to Category 3, or those in the Indigenous institution class.

Thresholds	Discount on the payment due to the Fund
Debt ratio less than 0.2	2.5%
Debt ratio less than 0.2, and Three-year average current ratio of 1.2 or more	5%

³ Institutions in the Indigenous institutions class are assigned the lowest graduated fee rate, and pay a flat fee payment of $10 to the Fund instead of having this calculated as a percentage of tuition revenue.

7.3 When and how to pay fees and payments

Type of payment	Form	When	How
Flat rate fees Graduated fees Payments to the Fund	For a certificate with a term of less than six months, or a certificate issued after the expiry date included in the previous certificate, payment must be in a lump sum Otherwise, institutions may choose between a lump sum and monthly payments	Lump sum is payable within 30 days of receiving an invoice Monthly payments paid by pre-authorized payment (PAD) over the term of the certificate*	Lump sum may be paid by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cheque, payable to the Minister of Finance • Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) • Credit card via the PTIRU Portal

Chapter 8: Financial security

This chapter supports:

- Section 7 of the Private Training Act
- Section 14 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

The registrar may require institutions to provide security – a financial instrument guaranteeing payment if the institution cannot or will not reimburse amounts paid from the Fund. This determination is made after an institution applies for certification or re-certification.

8.1 Determining whether security is required

To determine whether an institution is required to provide security, the registrar will consider:

- Whether the institution's certificate has been suspended in the past two years
- How long the institution has been certified
- The institution's category rating for each criterion
- If the institution does not hold a certificate, the institution's balance sheet
- Whether the institution has had a change in control within the past year
- Whether the institution is in the Indigenous institution class
- The institution's financial statements for the 3 previous fiscal years
- Other information available to the registrar that the registrar considers relevant

For institutions not automatically assigned to a category, the registrar will conduct an assessment after an institution submits an application for re-certification. For more information, see Chapter 6: Category Assignment.

8.2 Determining the amount of security

The maximum amount of security required will be $1,000,000. Generally, the registrar will apply the following principles when determining the amount of security:

Application for certification	Amount of Security
First time application	At least $25,000
Re-application	The greater of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • $25,000 or • 25% of unearned tuition revenue from approved programs in the previous fiscal year to a maximum of $1,000,000

8.3 Acceptable types of security

Two types of security are accepted, as shown in the table below.

Type of security	Conditions
An irrevocable letter of credit (ILOC) issued by a savings institution (which generally means a bank or a credit union). The financial institution must have an office in Canada.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Must be made out to the Trustee of the Student Tuition Protection Fund under the Private Training Act, S.B.C.2015, c.5 • Must include an automatic renewal clause • The savings institution must agree that the beneficiary is permitted to make partial drawings from the ILOC • Must be for a term of at least 12 months 	Both bonds and ILOCs must include: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The legal name and location(s) of the institution 2. The amount of the financial security 3. The end/expiry date of the security For templates, see:
A surety bond, issued by a business authorized under the Financial Institutions Act to carry on insurance business.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Must be made out to the Trustee of the Student Tuition Protection Fund • Must be for a term of at least 15 months after the expiry date of the certificate held by the institution • Must include a notice of cancellation provision of 30 days or more • The issuer must agree that the beneficiary is permitted to make partial drawings from the surety bond 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Appendix 19: Irrevocable Letter of Credit Template • Appendix 20: Surety Bond Template

8.4 Reimbursing amounts paid from the Fund

The security may be realized up to the amount paid from the Fund. The institution is liable for reimbursing any amount paid from the Fund.

Chapter 9: Claims against the Fund

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 17, 18, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27 of the Private Training Act
- Sections 61 and 62 of the Private Training Regulation
- 15-26 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

A student may file a claim against the Fund on the following grounds:

- The institution misled the student regarding a significant aspect of an approved program; or
- The institution ceases to hold a certificate before a student can complete their approved program.

Students may be refunded up to the total tuition paid.

Tuition is defined as the total fees the student, or someone on behalf of a student, pays to the institution for a program, not including:

- Administrative, application or assessment fees
- Fees for textbooks or other course material, including equipment or uniforms

The Student Tuition Protection Fund

The Fund consists of payments made by certified private training institutions, and is managed by the BC Investment Management Corporation. The Fund is a trust fund established under the PTA to protect student tuition in the event that an institution misled a student regarding a significant aspect or an approved program, or the institution ceases to hold a certificate before a student a complete their approved program. Financial statements for the Fund are posted on the PTIRU website.

The Trustee

Claims are adjudicated by the trustee, who was appointed by the Minister of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills.

9.1 Who can file claims and under what circumstances

Ground for claim	Who can claim	Deadline for filing claim
The institution no longer holds a certificate	A student enrolled in an approved program at the time the institution ceased to hold a certificate	The student must file the claim within one year of the date the institution ceased to hold a certificate
Example: On December 1, 2018, the registrar cancels the certificate issued to Institution ABC. A student enrolled in an approved six-month program paid tuition and completed only three months of studies. The student must file a claim by December 1, 2019.
Grounds for claim	Who can claim	Deadline for filing claim
The institution misled the student regarding a significant aspect of an approved program	Any student who: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • is or was enrolled in the approved program, and • has exhausted the institution's dispute resolution process 	The student must file the claim within one year of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • completion • dismissal, or • withdrawal
Example: Six months into a two-year program at Institution XYZ, a student learns that – contrary to what was specified in her enrolment contract – the second year of the program is delivered online rather than in-class. The student goes through the dispute resolution process established by Institution XYZ but remains unsatisfied and withdraws from the program on March 1, 2019. The student must file a claim by March 1, 2020.

9.2 How the claim process works

The tables below outline the processes for claims against the Fund for each of the allowable grounds.

To file a claim, a student must submit all of the information and records, if available, listed on the claim form by the one year deadline.

While deadlines apply to parts of the process, the trustee may extend, at the request of the student or the institution or its own initiative, the time period for responses and submissions. The trustee cannot extend the one year deadline to file a claim. The trustee may also consolidate claims.

The trustee

Claims are adjudicated by the trustee, who was appointed by the Minister of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills.

All Trustee decisions must be published on the PTIRU website.

Decisions will be posted for 3 years.

Student	File a claim using the form at: www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca	Within one year of the date the institution ceased holding a certificate

Trustee	Adjudicates the claim to determine whether any refund should be issued, and provides written reasons to the student, the institution and the registrar

For more information about comparable programs, see Section 9.2.5.

9.3 Approved claims may result in payments to student, the government or an institution

Type of approved claim	Type of payment from the Fund
A student is enrolled in an approved program at the time the institution's certificate is cancelled or surrendered	If the registrar appoints a train-out institution to provide a comparable program, payments from the Fund are made to the train-out institution to cover the cost of completing the program. If the registrar determines that there is no comparable program, or there is a comparable program but special circumstances prevent the student from attending, and the student has received student financial assistance, payments from the Fund are first applied to any outstanding student loans. Otherwise, the payment from the Fund is made to the student.
The student was misled regarding a significant aspect of the program	If the student has received student financial assistance, payments from the Fund are first applied to any outstanding student loans. Otherwise, the payments from the Fund are made to the student.

9.4 Repayments to the Fund

Institutions are required to reimburse the Fund for any payments resulting from approved claims.

9.5 Comparable programs

The registrar may appoint an institution (the train-out institution) to provide a comparable program to students who were enrolled in an approved program and had not completed their program at the time an institution ceased to hold a certificate.

PTIRU may invite institutions to make proposals to be appointed a train-out institution. In determining whether a program is comparable, the registrar will take into account the following considerations, among others:

- (a) program content
- (b) location from which the program is offered
- (c) tuition
- (d) start and end date of the program
- (e) date the institution offering the program was initially certified
- (f) whether institution is registered or designated
- (g) institution's most recent inspection report
- (h) institution's category assessment
- (i) institution's compliance history
- (j) institution's capacity to provide comparable program
- (k) reasonableness of the institution's plan for accommodating students
- (l) if the program leads to employment in a career occupation that is regulated by a regulator, institution's standing with regulator's requirements
- (m) date the institution last offered the program

A train-out institution may not charge a student enrolled in a comparable program tuition unless:

- (a) an amount of tuition is payable by the student to the institution that ceased to hold a certificate and
- (b) the registrar provides the train-out institution with written confirmation of the amount of tuition payable by the student.

Chapter 10: Reconsideration, appeal and review

This chapter of the manual supports:

- Sections 47-56 of the Private Training Act
- Section 13 of the Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation

Certified institutions may apply for a reconsideration or file an appeal of certain decisions of the registrar. Uncertified institutions may only request a review of administrative penalties.

10.1 Reconsideration

Certified institutions may apply for a reconsideration of a decision by the registrar to:

- Refuse to issue a certificate
- Suspend a certificate, or
- Impose an administrative penalty

Reconsiderations must be based on one or more of the following grounds:

- The registrar made an error in law
- The registrar did not observe principles of natural justice, such as administrative fairness
- New evidence is available that was not available at the time the registrar made the decision

Evidence that the institution has subsequently remedied the contraventions that formed the basis for the enforcement action is not in itself grounds to request a reconsideration.

To request a reconsideration:

- Submit a Request for Reconsideration form available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab at www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca citing at least one of the grounds listed above
- Include the reconsideration fee ($100)
- Ensure the request is received by the registrar within the following timelines:
 - for reconsideration of a certificate refusal or suspension, no more than 30 days after receipt of the decision from the registrar
 - for reconsideration of an administrative penalty, no more than 15 days after the determination imposing the penalty is served on the institution

The Registrar's Rules of Practice and Procedure for Reconsiderations are available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab at www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca.

The table below shows the possible outcomes of reconsiderations. In each case, the registrar will issue written reasons.

Decision being reconsidered	Possible outcomes
Refusal to issue certificate	Confirm refusal	Overturn refusal and issue a certificate
Administrative penalty	Affirm the penalty	Rescind the penalty
Certificate suspension	Confirm the suspension	Cancel the suspension

10.2 Appeal to the commissioner

The following decisions may be appealed to the commissioner:

- Reconsideration decisions by the registrar regarding:
 - certificate refusal
 - certificate suspension
 - administrative penalties
- Decisions by the registrar to cancel a certificate.

The commissioner

The commissioner is appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council for a term of five years, with the option of reappointment.

To file an appeal:

- Complete a notice of appeal, available at www.privateinstitutions.gov.bc.ca
- Include the appeal fee ($100)
- Send it to PTIRU to the attention of the commissioner along with the applicable fee, and
- Ensure it arrives within 30 days from the date of the reconsideration decision, or the date the institution received notice of a certificate cancellation.

10.2.1 Appeal process

As a general rule, when deciding an appeal, the commissioner will consider only the records that were before the registrar. However, the commissioner may consider additional records where it is reasonably required for a full and fair disclosure of all matters related to the decision under appeal.

Several provisions of the Administrative Tribunals Act apply. For example, the commissioner:

- Cannot address questions relating to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms or the British Columbia Human Rights Code
- Cannot be compelled to testify or produce evidence in any civil proceeding, and
- Is protected from personal liability in relation to the good faith exercise of his or her powers and duties

10.2.2 Orders from the commissioner

After considering an appeal, the commissioner may:

- Dismiss the appeal
- Allow the appeal and give any directions to the registrar that the commissioner considers appropriate in the circumstances, and/or
- Vary the decision under appeal (this can include reducing the amount of an administrative penalty).

The commissioner will give written reasons to the institution and the registrar, and make these reasons publicly available.

In exceptional circumstances, the commissioner may require an institution to pay all or part of the appeal costs, where the conduct of the institution in relation to the appeal is found to have been improper, vexatious, frivolous or abusive, and file the order with the British Columbia Supreme Court, giving it the same force and effect as a judgment of that court

Decisions of the commissioner are final and may not be appealed.

10.3 Review of administrative penalties (uncertified institutions only)

Uncertified institutions may request a review of any administrative penalty imposed by the registrar.

Reviews must be based on one or more of the following grounds:

- The registrar made an error in law
- The registrar did not observe principles of natural justice, such as administrative fairness, and/or
- New evidence not available at the time the decision was made is available

To request a review:

- Submit a written Request for Review form which PTIRU will provide with the administrative penalty, citing at least one of the grounds listed above
- Ensure that the request is received by PTIRU within 15 days of the penalty being served on the institution

Reviews are carried out by review officers – designated employees of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills. Review officers may consider new information, and have the authority to rescind or affirm an administrative penalty. They may also reduce an administrative penalty in circumstances where it is considered excessive.

Review officers will give written reasons to the institution and the registrar. Administrative penalties affirmed or reduced are payable within 30 days of service of the review decision.

Review decisions are final and may not be appealed to the commissioner.

Appendix 6: Learning Objectives

1. What are learning objectives, and why are they important?
2. What should learning objectives look like?
3. How many learning objectives should a program have?.....
4. Should every learning objective for the program be in the program outline?
5. What is the PTIRU looking for in the learning objectives section of an outline, and why?.....
6. Common problems with learning objectives in program and course outlines
7. Some online resources on learning objectives and how to write them

1. What are learning objectives, and why are they important?

A clear learning objective states knowledge, a skill or an attitude a learner will be able to demonstrate upon completion of the program or course. The learning objectives are the most important section of your program or course outline, because they:

- define the type, breadth and depth of learning students are expected to achieve
- provide objective benchmarks for assessment
- clearly communicate expectations to students
- clearly communicate graduates' knowledge and skills to prospective employers
- define units of learning
- guide the instructor and the student

The Private Training Regulation requires that:

- Learning objectives must be appropriate for the career occupation for which the program is intended to prepare the student
- The program title must be consistent with the learning objectives

2. What should learning objectives look like?

Learning objectives are written as statements (usually in a point-form list) using action verbs such as: identify, recognize, describe, demonstrate, analyze, calculate, design, diagnose, assess.

Examples: Upon successful completion of this program/course, students will be able to:

- identify potential safety hazards in the workplace
- demonstrate professional standards of waste prevention
- design an effective marketing plan for a small business

Learning objectives must be measurable or observable. Evaluation methods such as written and practical exams are chosen based on the program's learning objectives, and evaluation tools are designed to measure how well students are meeting them.

Avoid using words such as understand, know, appreciate, learn, which are not measurable and/or relate to the process of study rather than the end result.

3. How many learning objectives should a program have?

This varies depending on the scope of the program. Learning objectives are the foundation on which a curriculum is built. There should be enough learning objectives to establish the program's breadth and depth of study – the major areas within its field that are covered - and to show how a successful graduate will be prepared for the career occupations listed in the application and program outline. Learning objectives in a program outline will be more general than those included in course outlines.

4. Should every learning objective for the program be in the program outline?

In general, no. If the program consists of courses, each course outline will have a list of learning objectives for that course, and together they provide greater detail of the learning objectives of the program as a whole. The objectives in the program outline will be broader and more general.

However, if the program does not consist of individual courses, the learning objectives in the program outline must provide all the detail a student or an instructor needs.

5. What is PTIRU looking for in the learning objectives section of an outline, and why?

When a new program application requiring approval is reviewed, or substantive changes to an approved program are applied for, the registrar will consider whether the learning objectives of the program are (or remain) appropriate for the career occupations listed on the program outline.

As well, the Private Training Regulation refers to learning objectives in the contexts of both new program approval and ongoing program compliance: various aspects of program design and delivery (such as admission requirements, intake model and maximum class size, course order, program length) must be appropriate to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program.

For PTIRU staff to determine whether program design and delivery, as described in your application, will enable students to achieve learning objectives, the objectives must be properly expressed, and there must be enough of them to show the full breadth and depth of the curriculum.

6. Common problems with learning objectives in program and course outlines

PTIRU staff may ask you to revise your learning objectives if:

- They are not student-focussed (e.g. they describe what the program covers, rather than specifying skills/knowledge a graduate will be able to demonstrate)
- They are vague or too broad
- They are too few to effectively show the program's scope
- They are too specific to effectively show the program's scope

- They do not use action verbs
- They are not measurable or observable

Until the learning objectives are expressed effectively other aspects of the program cannot be assessed in relation to them.

You may be asked to revise your program title and/or career occupations if learning objectives are not appropriate for the career occupation for which the program is intended to prepare the student, or if the program title is not consistent with the learning objectives.

At a designated institution, ensuring appropriate learning objectives is a responsibility of the Senior Educational Administrator (SEA). Revisions should be done in consultation with the curriculum designer.

Appendix 7: Admission requirements

1. What are admission requirements, and why are they important?.....
2. Admission requirements or admission procedures?
3. What should admission requirements include?.....
4. Setting your program's admission requirements.....
5. Prior learning recognition
6. Subjective and/or non-quantifiable admission requirements.....
7. Other requirements to participate in work experience or employment
8. Common problems with admission requirements

1. What are admission requirements, and why are they important?

Admission requirements are the skills, knowledge and/or other background, including minimum language proficiency, a student must have to be admitted to a program and that make it likely the student will successfully complete the program. Appropriate admission requirements support student retention, success and satisfaction, which is good for both students and the institution.

Admission requirements may not be varied or waived by either an institution or a student, and they must be applied consistently to all students in the program.

Student records must show that admission requirements have been met by each student, and have been applied consistently to all students.

Should you want to change the admission requirements listed with PTIRU, you must first obtain PTIRU's consent.

2. Admission requirements or admission procedures?

Admission requirements are different from admission procedures.

In general, any requirement on which the decision to admit a student to a program will be based, in whole or in part, is an admission requirement. If it is part of the admitting process, but will not influence the decision whether to admit a student, it is an admission procedure.

Admission procedures might include the following:

- Completion of application form
- Payment of application fee
- Proof of identity
- Parental signature for minors

You may include admission procedures in your program materials (program outline, etc.), but PTIRU does not list these with program information. Some processes are administrative in nature (e.g. completion of forms, payment of fees) or may be legal requirements (parental signature for minors). These are either not subject to regulation or are covered in another context, such as requirements for the student enrollment contract.

3. What should admission requirements include?

Admission requirements should be clear and specific, and state a minimum standard to be met.

To be compliant with Private Training Regulation 18(2)(a)(ii) “admission requirements make it likely students will meet the learning objectives of the program”, PTIRU requires that admission requirements for career training programs (Class A and B), in addition to academic or other requirements already in place, must, as of January 1, 2025, include a language proficiency requirement (LPR), regardless of the program’s language(s) of instruction.

Language requirements should be at a sufficient level for the student to understand and discuss, in speech and in writing, the level and complexity of the educational materials.

English language proficiency requirements that include testing options must include tests that are broadly recognized by the sector (e.g., TOEFL, IELTS) and that are conducted by a reputable third party. Language proficiency tests for programs delivered in a language other than English will be assessed on a case-by-case basis. Institutions will no longer be permitted to use in-house language assessments.

Student records must contain evidence of language proficiency at the level required by the institution’s admission requirements.

For more information about language proficiency requirements, please refer to Appendix 8: Language Proficiency Requirements Guide.

When developing admission requirements you should consider the following:

- The level of proficiency in the language of instruction required in order for the student to be successful.
- Prior education, if required: e.g. Grade 12 or equivalent; Bachelor’s degree; Grade 10 math with minimum grade of C+.
- Prior experience, if applicable: e.g. program-related work or volunteering, with minimum duration and type of documentation required.
- Membership: registration, certification, licensure (for example, private pilot’s license, registered counsellor).
- Minimum age. (Having a parent or guardian sign for a minor is a legal requirement. It is not an admission requirement.) “Grade 12 or minimum 19 years of age” is common and meets StudentAid BC requirements.

- 'Mature student' status may be considered as part of a program's admission requirements if it is an alternative to other requirements such as prior education, and it has a documentable definition.

4. Setting your program's admission requirements

- Choose admission criteria and standards that address all skills and/or knowledge students will need to succeed from their first day in this program.
- Ensure each requirement you set effectively addresses the criterion it is meant to. For example, to prove a level of language proficiency, choose assessment tests or proof of prior education in the language of instruction. Citizenship or residency does not guarantee fluency in a language.
- Set clear standards by specifying minimum levels and acceptable scores: for example, IELTS 6.5; English 12 with a minimum grade of C+; 80 hours documented work or volunteer experience; etc.
- The criteria and standards you set must be documentable, by the student or another organization (e.g. Grade 12 diploma, IELTS results, prior credential or transcript, letter of reference), or (for requirements other than language proficiency) by means of a test or process designed and administered by your institution.
- If you design a test of your own, for something other than language proficiency, it must effectively assess the applicant's knowledge of the subject. Be prepared to provide a copy to PTIRU if requested.
- Language proficiency requirements for class A and B programs must include language tests that are broadly recognized (e.g., TOEFL, IELTS) and that are conducted by a reputable third party. Institutions will no longer be permitted to use in-house language assessments.
- If there are equivalents you will accept they must be specified, and are considered part of the admission requirements. A detailed Language Proficiency Policy is also considered part of your Admission Requirements for each program it applies to. Both must be included in the program outline and posted on your website.
- A program designed to teach intermediate or advanced skills must have admission requirements that ensure students already have an appropriate level of skills and knowledge in the program area.
- If your program is in a regulated field (e.g. health occupations) the admission requirements may be set by the regulator. It is your responsibility to know if this applies to a program you are applying for or offering, and if so to ensure you set, maintain and apply the regulator's minimum admission requirements.

5. Prior learning recognition

If you design a test for program-related admission criteria such as computer skills, familiarity with the program's subject matter, etc. it must effectively assess the applicant's knowledge of the subject(s) it covers, and must be used and graded consistently and a copy kept in the student's record. Be prepared to provide a copy to PTIRU of any such assessments if requested.

If you develop a course that a student must successfully complete in order to meet an admission requirement, the course and its evaluation must be sufficient to demonstrate the student has the same level of understanding as someone who completed the course at a high school. For example, if the admission requirement is Grade 11 biology, your course must be equivalent to a BC public course. Language courses/programs used as part of an LPR for class A and B programs must have an established pathway/articulation agreement allowing direct entry (no further testing required) to a diploma or degree program at a public institution in Canada.

If you develop your own courses for equivalencies, you will be asked to submit course outlines to show that these will adequately prepare students for admission to the institution. PTIRU will review the outlines to ensure they accurately show the course content and what the course can be used for. The registrar may request an evaluation by a third-party or may appoint an inspector to confirm the level of the course in question.

If you use a prior learning assessment process, it may accept a student's prior education or experience to be equivalent to no more than 50% of the hours of instruction of the program. (For more information and the exceptions to this, see Private Training Regulation s.42.)

6. Subjective and/or non-quantifiable admission requirements

These include pre-existing skills, aptitude, maturity, etc. If they are included in admission requirements, these are usually assessed by means of an interview, assessment, portfolio, audition and/or essay.

Examples:

- Interview: is it meant to determine aptitude, maturity, oral language proficiency, or otherwise help establish whether candidates are prepared to succeed? If so, it is an admission requirement.
 - However, if an interview is just a chance to get acquainted and find out how the applicant heard about the program, it is an admission procedure, not an admission requirement, even if all applicants must do it. See Section 2 above.
- Portfolio: does the portfolio's content help you make an admission decision? If so, it is an admission requirement, and there must be documentation of criteria for assessing the work and what standards must be met.
 - If the portfolio is meant only to give the instructor an idea of the student's work to date, media used, etc., it is a procedure. See Section 2 above.
- Student statement: A statement by which the student represents to the institution that they meet admission requirements, such as skills difficult to test or document (e.g. for backcountry guiding programs), is an admission requirement.
 - If a student may be admitted based on his or her own statement of background and preparedness it is very important that the questions asked and criteria for assessing responses be effective and rigorous, for protection of both the student and the institution.

Note: for any of these, the rationale for making admission decisions need not be explained in the admission requirements, but it must be articulated in the tools used for assessing the interview, portfolio, audition, etc., and documented in the student record.

7. Other requirements to participate in work experience or employment

Some items often listed in admission requirements may not need to be met before admission into the program, but are required to complete the program. These usually relate to eligibility for work experience (WE) placement and/or employment in the field, and include things like a negative TB test, current immunizations, and satisfactory criminal record check. Usually WE hosts will require these to have taken place recently (within six months of start of the placement or employment is common), so having students meet these requirements before the start of a long program may not make sense.

Requirements to attend a WE (including specifics such as type of criminal record check) must be included in the student enrollment contract and should be included in the program outline to ensure students understand their importance, and help them make an informed choice about whether this program is right for them.

These requirements should often not be included in the admission requirements for the program: listing them separately in the program outline ensures students are aware of them but allows a more appropriate time frame for students to complete them. It also allows them to be changed without an application to PTIRU if circumstances require it.

For programs leading to an occupation regulated by a regulator, the requirements of the regulator for employment in the career occupation must also be included in the student enrolment contract.

8. Common problems with admission requirements

PTIRU staff may ask you to clarify or revise your admission requirements if:

- Requirements do not fully address the language proficiency a student must have to achieve the learning objectives of the program, setting a realistic minimum level of proficiency and effectively covering reading, writing, listening and speaking.
- The various standardized English assessment/test scores listed as part of the language proficiency requirements are not equivalent to each other.
- Requirements are not consistent in their effect for all applicants to the program. (Different measures may be used depending on a student's background, but all measures must ensure the same minimum level of preparation in areas essential to achieving the learning objectives. The admission requirements as a whole must cover all potential applicants to the program.)
- Requirements cannot be confirmed by the institution and documented in students' records (other than exceptions such as talked about in s.6 above).
- Requirements are not consistent between the program outline, program evaluation report, and/or other program materials.
- A requirement is too vague: for example, a requirement for "good English proficiency" or "basic computer skills" is subjective (it does not define 'good' or 'basic'), and does not describe how an applicant is expected to demonstrate or document that they have the required skill.
- It is not clear whether an interview contributes to the admissions decision.
- It is not clear how the institution conducts interviews consistently for all applicants.
- Admission procedures have been included as admission requirements.

7. Frequently asked questions (FAQ).....

1. What are Language Proficiency Requirements, and why are they important?

Language proficiency requirements (LPR) are a part of a program's admission requirements to ensure students have a reasonable level of language proficiency to make it likely that they will successfully complete the program.

Language requirements should be at a sufficient level for the student to understand and discuss, in speech and in writing, the level and complexity of the educational materials. All applicants, regardless of their citizenship status or country of origin, must demonstrate an appropriate level of language proficiency.

2. What should language proficiency requirements include?

For Class A and Class B career programs, an institution must use at least one of the following options as a language proficiency statement and may use additional options that establish an equal or higher standard.

Based on a review of the curriculum, resources and learning objectives, the Registrar may determine that the minimum standards noted below are not sufficient and require a higher language proficiency requirement for entry into a program.

Option 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Evidence that 3 years of full-time secondary education (Grades 8-12), or 2 years if the Grades are 10, 11, or 12, have been successfully completed in the program's language of instruction in a country where the language of instruction is one of the principal languages. This may be demonstrated by providing a high school transcript, completion of a BC Adult Graduation program or providing international education credentials recognized through WES, ICES, or IQAS.
Option 2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 2 years of full-time post-secondary education* have been completed in the program's language of instruction in a country where the language of instruction is one of the principal languages (includes international education credentials recognized through WES, ICES, and IQAS). *Language development courses (i.e., ELL courses) cannot be included in this calculation.
Option 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Where English is the program's language of instruction, evidence of achievement in a recognized standardized language test/assessment* at an overall level equivalent to IELTS 5.5 (academic) or higher. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> All accepted language tests/assessments must be listed with a minimum score/level specified for each. 'Or equivalent' will not be accepted. Language tests must include assessments of reading, writing, listening, and speaking. *Institutions are not permitted to use in-house (self-developed) language assessments. Unless otherwise approved by the registrar, institutions are expected to utilize standardized language tests that are well established and broadly accepted across the sector (both public and private BC post-secondary institutions). See Section 4. Standardized English language test/assessments for more information.
Option 4	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Evidence of graduation from language program with a minimum grade/level from a Languages Canada accredited institution with an established pathway/articulation agreement allowing direct entry (no further testing required) to a diploma or degree program at a public institution in Canada. The pathway/articulation agreement must be current at the date of enrolment. When considering pathway options, institutions are reminded that they must be ready to provide documentary evidence of a current pathway/articulation agreement between the partner institutions at any time (i.e., a copy of the agreement, or a dated screenshot referring to the partnership from a partner institution's website which is included in the student's record). For this reason, we strongly recommend that institutions only include a pathway agreement as part of their LPR that is established with their own institution. Documentation of the student's graduation from the pathway program must also be included in the student's record.
Option 5	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Evidence that a language standard defined and accepted by a third-party regulator has been met. This may include minimum language standards or testing options set by a third-party regulator (e.g., Health Colleges, Public Registries, Transport Canada, etc.).

Option 6	Important note: this option may only be applied when: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ English is the program's language of instruction, and ○ the applicant is a mature domestic student facing barriers, and ○ the applicant cannot access their educational records or cannot provide sufficient evidence of secondary or post-secondary education as outlined in this policy Accuplacer: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Applicant is [X] years or older at the start of the program and is a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, and ▪ Applicant provides attestation that they have completed at least three years of full-time instruction in English* in a country where the English is one of the principal languages, and ▪ Applicant completes an Accuplacer English Assessment (Next Generation: Reading, Writing and WritePlacer) and achieves the following minimum scores: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Reading: 230, and ○ Writing: 230, and ○ WritePlacer: 4 *Language development courses (i.e., ELL courses) cannot be included in this calculation. Accuplacer may not be used to demonstrate that a student meets an admission requirement other than language proficiency. For example, Accuplacer may not be used to demonstrate that a student meets a Math 11 admission requirement.

Exceptions:

While PTIRU anticipates exceptions to be a rare occurrence, in circumstances where students would not need to meet the standards above to be successful in the program, alternatives to the standards may be considered by the Registrar for specified programs if the program is intended to assist students with barriers and there is sufficient support for language development within the program curriculum.

Exceptions may also be requested for publicly-funded programs¹².

Institutions may make proposals for specific programs by submitting an LPR Assessment form. Assessment forms must be accompanied by an Application – New Program or Application – Program Change, as applicable. The Registrar will consider these proposals on a program-by-program basis.

Applications accompanied by exception requests to the established LPRs will inherently take longer to be reviewed by PTIRU. Institutions may not proceed with their proposed assessment option until approved by the Registrar.

¹² A publicly funded program is a program offering in which all students enrolled are funded by a public body. A public body means: (a) a ministry of the government of British Columbia (b) an agency, board commission, office, or other body designated in Schedule 2 of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, or (c) a local public body

3. Sample language proficiency requirements policy

Below is an example of an LPR policy where English is the program's language of instruction:

Prior to acceptance applicants must meet at least one of the following language proficiency requirements:

- Completion of 2 years of secondary education (including English 10 and 11 with a grade of 'C' or higher) from a country where English is one of the principal languages, or
- Completion of 2 years of full-time post-secondary education at an accredited institution where English is the language of instruction, or
- Completion of [name of pathway/articulated language program] with [X level/grade] from a Languages Canada accredited institution * from [name of institution], or
- Provide verified results for one of the English language proficiency tests listed below.
Test results must be dated no more than two years before the start date of the program.
 - International English Language Testing System (IELTS) Academic: overall score of 5.5 or higher.
 - Canadian Academic English Language (CAEL) Test: overall score of 40 or higher
 - Duolingo English Test: overall score of 95 or higher

Mature student applicants:

- Applicant is 19 years or older at the start of the program and is a Canadian citizen or permanent resident who cannot access their educational records or provide sufficient evidence of secondary or post-secondary education as outlined above:
 - applicant provides attestation that they have completed at least three years of full-time instruction in English in a country where the English is one of the principal languages, and
 - Applicant completes an Accuplacer English Assessment (Next Generation: Reading, Writing and WritePlacer) and achieves the following minimum scores:
 - Reading: 235
 - Writing: 235
 - WritePlacer: 4

4. Standardized English language test/assessments

The Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) considers the following standardized English language test/assessment scores to be at a level equivalent to IELTS 5.5 (academic).

Institutions are not permitted to use language tests/assessments that they developed (in-house language assessments) as part of an LPR.

Name of English language assessment/test		Minimum score(s)/level(s)*	Date added
1.	International English Language Testing System (IELTS) Academic	Minimum overall score of 5.5	2024.07.15
2.	Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) IBT	Minimum overall score of 46	2024.07.15
3.	Canadian Academic English Language Assessment (CAEL)	Minimum overall score of 40	2024.12.17
4.	Canadian English Language Proficiency Index Program (CELPIP)	Listening 6 , Speaking 6 , Reading 5 , and Writing 5 .	2024.12.17
5.	Duolingo English Test (DET)	Minimum overall score of 95	2024.12.17
6.	Pearson Test of English (PTE) Academic	Minimum overall score of 43	2024.12.17
7.	Cambridge English Qualifications: B2 First exam (FCE) Institutions may include other Cambridge Qualifications at a higher level (i.e., C2 Proficiency (CPE)).	Minimum overall score of 160 or "C"	2024.12.17
8.	Cambridge Linguaskill	Minimum overall B2 level	2024.12.17
9.	LANGUAGECERT Academic	Minimum overall B2 level	2024.12.17
10.	The Michigan English Test (MET)	Minimum overall B2 level	2024.12.17
11.	iTEP Academic	Minimum overall score of 3.5	2024.12.17
12.	EIKEN	Minimum placement of Grade Pre-1	2024.12.17

*Please note that the tests/assessments listed in this chart have varied designs, testing methods, and scoring. This reference chart is not intended to be used for official English language proficiency test score comparison purposes. The tests and minimum scores included in this list will be reviewed periodically and updated to ensure they are meeting the minimum standard.

Other test considerations:

Canadian Language Benchmark Placement Test (CLB PT)	The CLB PT may be used as part of an LPR in instances where the test is accepted by a third-party regulator or program funder.

PTIRU recognizes that there may be other comparable standardized tests/assessments than those listed below.

For a standardized test to be added to PITRU's LPR Guide it must be broadly accepted across the sector (both by public and private BC post-secondary institutions). Tests that are not accepted by both public and private BC post-secondary institutions will not be listed. PTIRU also considers a test's design, invigilation methods, scoring, and intended use as stated by the test provider.

In exceptional circumstances, the Registrar may consider proposals for testing alternatives on a program-by-program basis. Institutions wishing to utilize a standardized test/assessment other than those listed in the LPR guide should be prepared to provide the following information using the LPR Assessment form. Assessment forms must be accompanied by an Application – Program Change or Application – New Program, as applicable.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Name of the test
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A link to the test/assessment provider's website
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A description of the intended use of the test as stated by the test provider
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The institution's rationale for including this language test instead of or in addition to the tests listed in PTIRU's LPR guide.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A description of how the test accurately evaluates a student's reading, writing, listening, and speaking competencies.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A description of how the language test is secured, invigilated, and marked.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A description of how the language test's scoring aligns with other broadly accepted language tests (if applicable).
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> List the BC public institutions that accept this test for comparable program offerings. Include the institution name(s) and program(s)
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Provide evidence to demonstrate how the test can ensure an appropriate level of language proficiency to enable students to meet the learning objectives of the program.

5. Assessment of prior education where English is the language of instruction

As an option for proof of English language proficiency, institutions may accept evidence that an applicant has successfully completed a specified minimum of full-time secondary or post-secondary education at an accredited institution where English is the language of instruction. Documentation demonstrating this evidence must be provided in English.

The PTIRU considers education completed (in English) in the following countries as counting toward an assessment of prior education in English.

American Samoa	Dominica	Lesotho	St. Kitts & Nevis
Anguilla	Falkland Islands	Liberia	St. Lucia
Antigua and Barbuda	Fiji	Malta	St. Vincent & the Grenadines
Australia	Gambia	Mauritius	Tanzania
Bahamas	Ghana	Montserrat	Trinidad & Tobago
Barbados	Gibraltar	New Zealand	Turks & Caicos Islands
Belize	Grenada	Nigeria	Uganda
Bermuda	Guam	Seychelles	United Kingdom
Botswana	Guyana	Sierra Leone	US Virgin Islands
British Virgin Islands	Ireland	Singapore	USA
Canada	Jamaica	South Africa	Zambia
Cayman Islands	Kenya	St. Helena	Zimbabwe

6. Common problems with language proficiency requirements

PTIRU staff may ask you to clarify or revise your language proficiency requirements if:

- Requirements do not fully address the language proficiency a student must have to achieve the learning objectives of the program, setting a realistic minimum level of proficiency and effectively covering reading, writing, listening and speaking.
- The various standardized English assessment/test scores listed as part of the language proficiency requirements are not equivalent to each other.
- LPR includes a language program offered by the institution that does not have a current established pathway/articulation agreement allowing direct entry to a diploma or degree program at a public institution in Canada.

7. Frequently asked questions (FAQ)

1.	Question: Are language (ESL) programs required to have a language proficiency requirement? Answer: No. However, language programs that offer instruction at an intermediate or advanced level must have measures in place to ensure that students are at the appropriate language level for entry so that they may be successful in the program
2.	Question: Our institution has an approved Class C (language) program. May a credential from this program be included as an LPR for one of our career training programs? Answer: Evidence of graduation from a language program from a Languages Canada accredited institution with an established pathway/articulation agreement allowing direct entry (no further testing required) to a diploma or degree program at a public institution in Canada may be used as an LPR. If the institution's Class C program has an established pathway/articulation agreement as outlined above, it may be used as a requirement.
3.	Question: Do we need to seek PTIRU's approval to add new standardized language proficiency assessment/test not included in the LPR policy? Answer: Yes. In exceptional circumstances, the Registrar may consider proposals for testing alternatives on a program-by-program basis. PTIRU's list of accepted tests and minimum scores will be reviewed periodically and updated as needed. For a standardized test to be added to PITRU's LPR Guide it must be broadly accepted across the sector (both by public and private BC post-secondary institutions). Tests that are not accepted by both public and private BC post-secondary institutions will not be listed.
4.	Question: Does the LPR apply to domestic students? Answer: Yes. All applicants, regardless of their citizenship status or country of origin, must demonstrate an appropriate level of language proficiency.

1. What is a work experience?

A work experience (WE) is part of a program in which a student applies and practices skills and knowledge learned in the program in a work-place setting. It is provided by a host organization in a formal agreement with the institution. The work performed by the student must be relevant to the learning objectives of the program. The student must be supervised by a person who is employed or retained by the host organization and who is qualified in a career occupation relevant to the program the student is taking.

There are four types of work experience recognized by the Private Training Regulation:

"clinical placement" means a type of work experience component

- (a) that is part of an approved program that leads to a career occupation in a health field,
- (b) in which no more than 12 students are supervised by one instructor, and
- (c) that consists of not more than 50% of the total hours of the program;

"cooperative placement" means a type of work experience component

- (a) that consists of not more than 50% of the total hours of the program, and
- (b) for which a student is paid;

"practicum" means a type of work experience component

- (a) that, subject to subsection (2), consists of not more than 20% of the total hours of the program, and
- (b) for which a student is not paid;

"preceptorship" means a type of work experience component

- (a) in which one student is supervised by one preceptor, and
- (b) that, subject to subsection (2), consists of not more than 10% of the total hours of the program.

All work experiences in approved programs must be one of these four types, and each must comply with its definition as set out in the regulation. For example, you may not refer to a work experience as an 'internship'. The only exception to the definitions and duration limits above is when a regulator (e.g. a College under the Health Professions Act) requires a WE to have a different duration or title.

2. Can a program have an optional work experience?

No. A work experience is an integral part of a program. There may be two versions of a program, one with a work experience and one without: these would be considered two separate programs, and a complete program application would be required for each.

Students may transfer between programs with or without a work experience, but this must be their own choice. If a student has enrolled in a program with a WE and there is no placement available, the student may be entitled to a full refund and may make a complaint to PTIRU.

3. Can students be required to find their own placement?

No. The institution is responsible to provide a placement for every student who enrolls in a program with a work experience and successfully completes the coursework and any other reasonable requirements for participation in the work experience.

Similarly, participation in work experience cannot be conditional on such factors as students passing interviews or receiving an offer from a host. If the institution has contracted with the student for a program with a work experience, it must provide the work experience.

4. What are the requirements when applying for a program with a work experience?

Every application for a new program with a work experience must include:

- a work experience policy (sample/template is available on the PTIRU website – see link below)
- a list of the organizations that will provide placements. There must be enough hosts already in place to accommodate the maximum number of students in the program. PTIRU staff may ask to see your agreements with hosts either when you apply for a new program or after a program is approved.
- A description of the activities that students will undertake during the work experience component(s) of the program. (See #7 below for more information on expectations for this list.) A sample/template work experience agreement with space for this information is available on the PTIRU website – see link below.

5. What is a work experience policy?

A work experience policy provides specific required information about the work experience component(s) of a program.

Every program that has a work experience must have a work experience policy, and each work experience policy must include the following information:

- (a) the process by which a student is placed in a work experience component;
- (b) the process by which a student in a work experience component is evaluated;
- (c) the intervals at which work experience monitoring of a student will be undertaken;
- (d) the requirements for participation in a work experience component;
- (e) the number of hours of the work experience component;
- (f) identification of the work experience component as a clinical placement, cooperative placement, practicum or preceptorship.

6. Common problems with work experience policy in applications

Common reasons why PTIRU staff may say that you need to revise your work experience policy:

- It does not include all the required elements listed in the Private Training Regulation s.41
- One or more of the provisions of the work experience policy is non-compliant with any applicable provision of the regulation
- There are inconsistencies within the policy, or between the policy and other program documents or information (e.g. the duration of the work experience in the policy doesn't match that in the program outline)
- The policy is not fair and reasonable (whether due to terms of one of the required elements, or any other aspect of the policy)

7. What is required for the list of activities student will undertake during WE?

Institutions must develop for each work experience a set of activities reasonably achievable within its duration, based on and supporting students' achievement of the program's learning objectives (LO). This ensures students are informed and have realistic expectations about their work experience. It helps institutions in monitoring placements to ensure they are consistent with terms of their agreements with both hosts and students, and in maintaining records to show compliance with work experience requirements. It provides hosts with clarity as to their role, and with specific criteria for student evaluation which the institution can then link with program learning objectives.

PTIRU will look for:

- ✓ A number, type and variety of activities sufficient and appropriate to give students some experience with, or practical exposure to, all or most of the program-level learning objectives.
- ✓ A number, type and variety of activities that are realistically achievable within the duration of the WE.
- ✓ Adherence to WE requirements of other regulator(s) where applicable.

- ✓ For some WE, activities may be focused in specific skill areas that make up a subset of the program learning objectives – e.g. an HCA practicum focused on Acute Care skills.
 - If the WE has a focus specific to a subset of the program LO, that should be clear in the WE information in the program documents – program outline, course outline, and/or WE policy, or clearly indicated in the WE title, not only in the description of activities.
 - ✓ For a short WE in a long program with many LO, the purpose is more to expose the student to the workplace environment than to involve them in comprehensive hands-on experience across the program LO. Activities for these WE will likely be more geared to observation and assistance than tasks or projects that the student is responsible for.
 - ✓ The list is specific and firm, and avoids exceptions and qualifiers (e.g. “a selection of”, “as applicable”), that reduce or make it unclear which activities or how many on the list a student might actually do.

8. Can a third party be used to manage a work experience?

Institutions are responsible for providing a work experience, for monitoring it and for evaluating it. These responsibilities may not be delegated. If you choose to contract with an organization that offers work experience management services, you are still responsible to ensure that all aspects of your work experience and work experience policy are compliant with the Private Training Act and Regulation. Read their materials carefully to ensure their policies, procedures and practices are compliant. Be prepared to provide copies of any of their materials and your agreement with them to PTIRU if requested, either as part of a new program application or at any time after the program is approved.

Regardless of who manages the work experience your institution must monitor students on placement directly: you may not assign this responsibility to a third party.

9. Common problems with work experience in program-related applications

Whether in applications for new programs or for changes to approved programs, common problems include:

- Work experience type not specified
- Work experience type not consistent: different types are mentioned in different parts of the application materials
- Terms of the work experience are not compliant with the regulatory requirements (e.g. a practicum that exceeds 20% of overall program duration, or an unpaid co-op)
- The list of hosts is missing, or is not adequate to accommodate the maximum class size
- The hosts listed are not suitable to provide work that is relevant to the learning objectives of the program

Appendix 10: Intake Models and Class Size

1. What is an Intake Model, and why is it important?
2. Intake Model definitions
3. Maximum number of students that may be admitted to the program
4. What information is the PTIRU looking for about the intake model and class size?
5. Common problems with intake models in program applications.....

1. What is an Intake Model, and why is it important?

The Intake Model is the plan and schedule you have for admitting students to a single offering of the program. It supports student success by ensuring students are able to take the courses in the program in an appropriate order, and with a class structure that is appropriate to the teaching methods. For example, in some programs it ensures students have the support of a cohort progressing together through the program, enabling them to do group work, partner for labs, engage in role playing exercises, etc.. In other programs this may not be important, and the intake model may be chosen to help individual students get quick access to training through more frequent starts.

2. Intake Model definitions

There are two types of intake models defined in the Private Training Regulation:

"intermittent intake model" means a student intake model in which students are admitted into a program of instruction at particular times of the year;

In an intermittent model, a student may start only at specific points in the program. It is the appropriate model for most programs, including distance delivery using synchronous teaching methods.

Many programs have a single intake point with all students starting together. Some programs have multiple intermittent intake points, e.g. at the start of each course, or at the start of each term. Multiple intermittent intake starting points may work for programs in which courses or course blocks may be taken in any order.

"continuous intake model" means a student intake model in which there is continuous admission of students throughout a program of instruction;

In a continuous intake model, a student may start at any time. This may be appropriate for self-paced learning, distance delivery using asynchronous teaching methods, or for language training.

3. Maximum number of students that may be admitted to the program

This is the highest number of students that may be enrolled in a single offering or cohort of the program, or (for programs with self-paced or asynchronous teaching methods) at any one time. This is not asking about how many times the program will be offered in a year. Maximum number of students that may be admitted to the program is determined by various factors, including:

- appropriate student/instructor ratio and/or student group size for the curriculum
- size of classrooms
- space/facilities/equipment required for learning and practicing applied skills
- for distance delivery: instructor capacity, technical and tech support capacity, and administrative support capacity
- agreements with suitable hosts for programs with work experience, if applicable

4. What information is PTIRU looking for about the intake model and class size?

These elements of an application tell us at what point(s) in the program students will start their studies, whether new students may be joining a program already in progress, and if so, how often and at what points, and the maximum number of students in the program at any one time.

Intake model considerations include course progression/order in which material is taught, classroom dynamics and teaching methods used, and any other consideration relevant to the specific program.

Class size considerations include student/instructor ratio, capacity of facilities and equipment, sufficiency of materials for students and instructors, classroom dynamics and teaching methods used, and any other consideration relevant to the specific program.

The Program Evaluator's comments (if required) must confirm that this intake plan is appropriate to support student success in the program: that all students will have an equal likelihood of achieving the learning objectives no matter when they start the program or which intake they are part of.

5. Common problems with intake models in program applications

PTIRU staff may ask you to clarify your intake model information if:

- The maximum class size doesn't appear to be supported by the program and/or institutional resources you have described.
- Information provided appears to refer to multiple separate offerings of the program (e.g. the total number you plan to start in a calendar year) rather than to a single offering.
- The intake model appears inappropriate for the program structure: e.g. continuous intake for an in-class or synchronous online program with courses that must be taken in a specific order.
- The information provided in the application differs from that in the Program Evaluation report; if so, we will need confirmation of the model to be used, and if it is different from what the evaluator originally reviewed, his/her confirmation that the model to be used is appropriate.

What is the New Program Evaluation, and why is it required?

A new program evaluation is a required part of an application for a Class A program submitted by a designated or interim designated institution, or by an applicant for a designation certificate. It may also be required, at the registrar's discretion, for any other new program or program change requiring approval. It provides the registrar with insight into various aspects of the program, related resources and delivery, from the point of view of an independent person who has expert knowledge of the field of study and the careers for which it is intended to prepare the student.

Why is a Program Evaluation required for a program in a regulated field?

The Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit administers the Private Training Act and associated regulations, which focus on student protection. Other regulators such as health colleges and Transport Canada have their own mandates, which focus primarily on public safety. As such, other regulators' reviews of programs may not cover all the areas that the PTIRU registrar is required to consider in deciding whether to approve a program. Therefore, a third-party evaluation is required to ensure the registrar has the required input on all aspects of the program specified in the Private Training Regulation from a person with appropriate education and experience in the program's subject matter and related occupation(s).

May the Registrar waive the requirement for a New Program Evaluation?

The registrar may waive the requirement for a program evaluation or elements of it, if all the information it is meant to provide is available for the program from some other source. However, generally, applications for Class A programs at Designated and Interim Designated institutions will continue to require a full program evaluation.

Registrar approval is required in advance to waive the requirement for a program evaluation or elements of a program evaluation. Decisions will be made on a program-by-program basis.

The registrar will consider the following criteria in determining whether to waive the requirement for a program evaluation or elements of a program evaluation for the purposes of a new program application:

- Whether a regulator/program approval body has conducted an evaluation that includes a review of curriculum, curriculum delivery and any specialized equipment or resources used in program delivery.
 - The registrar may request a copy of a regulator/program approval body's evaluation if it is available, or an institution may request that the registrar waive the requirement for a program evaluation by submitting a copy of a regulator/program approval body's evaluation, if available, and any correspondence related to the resolution of issues identified in that evaluation.
- Whether the new program application is for a variation of an already existing approved program
 - Whether a program evaluation was provided with the initial application (this applies when a new application is being considered for a variation of an already approved program), and if so, the length of time since the original application.
 - Whether there have been changes to the program since initial approval (this applies when a new application is being considered for a variation of an already approved program)
- Whether the program is being moved from one certified institution to another and the institutions share a common owner
- Whether the new program is the same as an existing program at the applicant institution, with a work experience component added/removed
- The compliance history of the institution
- Any other information the registrar considers relevant

A new program will not be exempt from the requirement for a program evaluation simply because it consists entirely of courses that are also part of other already-approved programs.

Institution requests for a Program Evaluation (PE) to be waived must be submitted to PTI@gov.bc.ca prior to submission of the new program application. The availability of this process does not change the expectation that applications are submitted complete with all required supporting documentation. Once the decision is received the application may be completed with all required elements and submitted to PTIRU.

Any questions about evaluation requirements should be directed to PTIRU before the program application is submitted.

Who does the evaluation?

The Program Evaluator must have expertise in an occupation directly relevant to the program. It's best if they also have experience in adult education, preferably curriculum design and/or teaching.

The Program Evaluator (or 'PE') must also have no conflict of interest that could affect their assessment of the program: they must not be a related party to the institution and must receive no benefit from the institution other than the payment for the evaluation.

How does an institution find an evaluator?

Institutions may find potential evaluators through professional associations, business networking, regulators, other institutions (public or private), members of their program advisory committee, etc. PTIRU does not publish the names of subject matter experts (SMEs) with whom we work.

In choosing a prospective program evaluator, ask them for a formal CV or résumé, and take time to confirm the elements of their background that are relevant to the program you want them to evaluate: education/credentials, occupational experience, possible conflicts of interest or other relationship to the institution (e.g. work for another entity under the same ownership). The institution contracts with and pays the evaluator: be sure to establish terms in advance.

How does an institution choose an evaluator?

A program evaluator should meet at least the minimum instructor qualifications for the program (vocational, academic or language). See Private Training Act Policy Manual s.3.2.8 for reference.

For career training this would be a relevant credential plus minimum two years' occupational experience in career occupations that are relevant to the program of instruction or, if no credential, a minimum of ten years' occupational experience in a career relevant to the program of instruction.

Experience in teaching and/or curriculum design may be considered as part of the occupational experience, but this should not make up most of the experience.

The sample checklist below will help you determine if a proposed evaluator has an appropriate background. A formal CV/resume should be provided by any prospective PE. The CV/resume should be detailed and clearly outline the evaluator's credentials, job title(s), job duration(s) and job duties. A copy of the CV/resume will be required by PTIRU to accompany the program evaluation report when submitted.

It is the institution's responsibility to ensure that the evaluator has the appropriate background and expertise. If an evaluation report is not completed by an appropriate PE the registrar may, at her discretion, decline to accept it as meeting the requirement and require an entirely new report. The registrar may also deny the application.

Sample PE checklist (vocational or practical training)

Credential(s) and occupational experience:

- ☐ The evaluator has a relevant credential and a minimum of 2 years full time occupational experience in career occupations that are relevant to the program of instruction.
- OR
- ☐ The evaluator has no credential but has a minimum of 10 years full time occupational experience in career occupations that are relevant to the program of instruction.

CV/resume:

- ☐ The evaluator's CV/resume clearly describes their credentials, job title(s), job duration(s) including specific dates, and job duties.

Conflict of interest:

- ☐ The evaluator is free of any possible conflict of interest or other relationship to the institution which may impact their impartiality.

Who arranges for and manages the evaluation?

The institution arranges the evaluation and site visit with the evaluator. Terms, including costs, are agreed upon between them. PTIRU is not involved in these arrangements.

Virtual site visits are only accepted under exceptional circumstances and must be approved in advance by the PTIRU.

What does the PTIRU review in relation to a Program Evaluator?

In deciding whether an evaluator meets the minimum standards in the PTR, PTIRU staff first look at the program outline that the PE has reviewed, specifically at the career occupation(s) for which the program is intended to prepare students (and to what level), whether the program is in a regulated field, the learning objectives, admission requirements and list of courses.

Then we look at the PE's CV or résumé: do they have a credential in the field of the program, or one that is very closely related? Do they have experience in the occupation, or one of the occupations, that the program will prepare students for? Is their experience current and, if applicable, specific to Canada/BC? Does their background at very least meet minimum requirements in the PTR for an instructor in the program? If the program is in a regulated field, does the proposed PE meet the regulator's requirements for practice in the field? If the program is to be offered by distance delivery, do they have experience and/or education relating to this?

These requirements are intended to ensure the PE has full and current knowledge of the occupation for which the program is intended to prepare students including, if applicable, regulation and legal scope of practice. Ideally, the PE will also have some background in adult education, to better equip him/her to assess the program design, materials, etc.

If the program combines two distinct areas of study (i.e. language training and a career skill), does the PE have adequate breadth of expertise to cover them both? If not, a second PE may be required; each could provide a separate report, or both could collaborate on one report. (See also #9, below.)

Is a Program Evaluator (PE) the same as a Subject Matter Expert (SME)?

The terms are used differently by PTIRU. A PE is someone who has been contracted by an institution to evaluate a specific program, while an SME is someone who has been contracted by PTIRU to participate in inspections or designation reviews involving programs in their area of expertise. However, a PE needs the same type of qualifications as a Subject Matter Expert: in-depth subject-matter knowledge and experience, and unrelated to the institution.

Who may not be a Program Evaluator?

The PTIRU will not accept an evaluator who:

- Works for the applicant institution, or for a related company
- Was involved in developing the curriculum to be used in the program, or in developing another program on which this one is based
- Would for any other reason have a conflict between their duty to evaluate the program impartially and their own self-interest, financial or otherwise
- Does not have current occupational experience directly relevant to the program. E.g. a Paralegal program must be evaluated by someone with experience as a paralegal, not as a lawyer.

How is the evaluation report submitted, and when?

The complete evaluation report must be sent directly to the PTIRU by the program evaluator. Where appropriate, the PE may choose to include photographs or other documentation with their report.

The report should be emailed as an attachment and sent to PTI@gov.bc.ca.

The institution's response to the PE's recommendations should be submitted as part of the program application. Do not submit the application before the report is finished and any changes based on the PE's recommendations have been made. Ensure supporting materials have been updated as needed.

What must the evaluation cover?

The Private Training Regulation s.13 (2) (b) lists what a program evaluation must cover. A report template is provided on the PTIRU website (Forms, Templates and Resources), and via a link at the end of this Guide. Always download a new copy of the report template for each review, as it is revised periodically. Reports submitted on outdated forms are not accepted.

What if the program combines two or more subject areas?

For minor components that are outside the PE's area of expertise, the PE should be able to speak to whether they are an appropriate part of a program in this field or, if an unusual addition, how they add to the student's education and preparation for work in the field.

For major components in differing subject areas, more than one PE may be required. They should work together to demonstrate that each major subject area of the program is covered appropriately, and the combination is also appropriate in design and delivery.

Are there special requirements for programs using distance delivery?

If a program will be delivered either partially or entirely using distance modalities, the evaluation must include answers to all questions about the method(s) and resources to be used. The institution must provide access to the learning management system (LMS) and other resources such that the evaluator is able to review them all from both the student's and the instructor's perspectives.

Can the same report be submitted with more than one application?

Only under very specific circumstances. The same report may be submitted with programs or program elements that are the same: e.g. new applications for a program in versions with and without co-op could have the same basic report, with additional information provided for the version with co-op addressing the work experience questions and how the co-op contributes overall to the program. Or if two institutions are under the same management and are applying for identical programs at the same time, the same report may be submitted with both. In this case any differences in the details of delivery relating to facilities etc., and site visits to each, must be accounted for in the evaluator's report.

In most cases a separate report is required for each program. No matter how similar programs are, submission of reports that are largely or entirely the same seriously undermines PTIRU's confidence in the validity of all of those reports. For the protection of all parties – the contracting institution, the evaluator, and prospective students - each evaluation report should very clearly reflect the program in the application for which it is submitted.

What is the PTIRU looking for in a Program Evaluation Report?

An evaluation report must meet the requirements of the Private Training Regulation s.13 (1) (o) and s.13 (2) (b) to provide information that under PTR s.14 (g) must be considered by the registrar in deciding whether to approve the program.

The report must be complete, thorough, and clear. It must include responses to each question that fully address the information and records the evaluator reviewed and on which their opinion is based, and provide an explanation of the response (simply 'yes' or 'no', or a restatement of the question, is not enough). The responses should also make it clear the PE reviewed the institution's unique offering in its entirety. Program Evaluation Reports should not provide generic answers that could be used for other programs at other institutions.

Reports not meeting these criteria will be returned and the institution's application denied.

Site visits: What if facilities and/or equipment aren't ready when the PE visits the site?

A site visit is a required part of a program evaluation. An institution should be ready to deliver a new program when they apply for it, but sometimes the facilities and/or equipment may not yet be fully prepared when the PE makes the site visit. If this is the case, the PE should explain in the report what is missing or remains to be done, and what explanation the institution has provided regarding their plans and projected timeline for completion. Both the institution and the PE should be prepared to provide additional information.

PTIRU will follow up during review of the program application to see if the space is ready, and may ask the institution at that time to provide additional material such as photos, and possibly including an addendum to the evaluation report with the PE's confirmation that the facilities/equipment are ready. PTIRU may also conduct its own inspection.

Site visits: What if the program is delivered entirely online / remotely?

If the program will be delivered solely by distance modalities the institution may request a waiver of the requirement for an in-person/onsite visit. This must be done before either the report or the application is submitted, to ensure the application is not returned as incomplete.

The Program Evaluator made recommendations: what response is expected?

A thorough review usually produces at least one or two recommendations. The institution should provide PTIRU with a response to PE recommendations along with the program application, explaining what changes (if any) are being made to the program as a result, and providing a rationale for any recommendations not followed.

The Program Evaluation has been submitted: what happens next?

PTIRU reviews the evaluation report in conjunction with the rest of the application. If we have further questions about any of the subjects covered by the report, any of the PE's comments, and/or the report as a whole, we may ask for clarification from the institution, the program evaluator, or both.

If an evaluation report is not completed by an appropriate PE, lacks sufficient explanation of the evaluator's conclusions, does not clearly address specifics of the program, appears to have been modified after the PE signed it, and/or otherwise does not clearly reflect the program for which it was submitted, the registrar may require additional information or may, at her discretion, decline to accept it as meeting the requirement and require an entirely new report. The registrar may also deny the application and require the institution to start over.

Common problems with New Program Evaluations

A report may not be accepted as fulfilling the requirements of the Private Training Regulation s.13 (1) (o) and/or 13 (2) if it was prepared by someone who is not appropriately qualified, or if it is poorly prepared and does not provide the registrar with adequate information.

Other problems with program evaluations may require clarification, further input from the evaluator, or an entirely new report. These include:

- Information about the program provided to the PE by the institution does not match what is in the application form and/or the program outline.
- The program is substantively changed after the evaluation report is complete.
- The PE has not addressed all the questions in the report template.
- The institution has not responded to the evaluator's recommendations.

- Content and/or characteristics of the report suggest it was not based on a full review of the program for which it was submitted.

This is not meant to be an exhaustive list of requirements relating to this subject found in the Private Training Act, Private Training Regulation, and/or Fees and Student Tuition Protection Fund Regulation. It is your responsibility to be aware of all regulatory requirements that apply to your business.

Appendix 12: Student Enrolment Contract Required Information (for programs requiring approval)

Institutions must enter into a written student enrolment contract with every student on or before the program start date. A copy of the contract must be provided to the student as soon as practicable. This requirement applies to all programs including those that do not require approval, except employer provided programs. Sample student enrolment contracts for both approved programs and programs that do not require approval are available in the Forms, Templates and Resources tab at <https://www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca/form-library>.

 - assessment fees
 - fees charged for course materials
 - aircraft utilization fees
- The method of payment by which a student may pay tuition and other fees listed above
- A list of other compulsory/mandatory fees the institution may require a student to pay not in respect of an approved program, and

What are administrative fees?

Administrative fees may include:

- Non-sufficient funds (NSF) fees
- Copy of transcript or student record fees

Administrative fees may not include:

- Co-op fees

For example, institutions must list the individual costs of each textbook, individual course materials, assessment fees, administrative fees, and other fees.

Programs regulated by other regulators

- If the program leads to employment in a career occupation that is regulated by a regulator, the requirements of the regulator for employment in the career occupation

Student enrolment contracts must also include the following three statements:

- This institution is certified by the Private Training Institutions Regulatory Unit (PTIRU) . Certified institutions must comply with regulatory requirements relating to, among other things, student enrolment contracts, tuition refunds and instructor qualifications. For more information about PTIRU, go to www.privatetraininginstitutions.gov.bc.ca
- Please be advised that under section 61 of the Private Training Act, the registrar is authorized to collect, use and disclose personal information in accordance with the regulator duties of the registrar under that Act. Accordingly, this institution is authorized to disclose your personal information to the registrar for regulatory purposes.
- I consent to the sharing, in accordance with applicable Provincial privacy legislation, of my enrolment and reporting information between this institution and Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada, as necessary, for the purposes of the International Student Program.

In addition, institutions may report the following information:

- Whether the student identifies as an Indigenous person that is, First Nations, Métis, or Inuit (voluntary disclosure)
- Whether the student has a disability (voluntary disclosure)

Additional information that may be included:

- Voluntary disclosure: whether student identifies as an Indigenous person that is, First Nations, Métis, or Inuit and whether student has disability

Appendix 13: Required Information and Student Records for an Approved Program

For students enrolled in any approved program, the institution must keep a current student record that includes the following:

- a) A copy of the signed student enrolment contract
- b) Evidence of payments for tuition and related fees, and, if applicable, refunds
- c) Evidence that the student has met the admission requirements for the approved program
- d) A copy of the attendance record for the student
- e) The student transcripts issued by the institution
- f) If applicable, a copy of a complaint made by the student to the institution in relation to an approved program of the institution, and all documents in relation to the complaint and the participation by the student in the dispute resolution process
- g) If applicable, copies of a notice of withdrawal or a notice of dismissal and documents in relation to the withdrawal or dismissal
- h) If the student is an international student who has been issued a study permit under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act (Canada), a copy of the letter of acceptance and a copy of the valid study permit
- i) If applicable, a copy of the credential granted to the student,
- j) If applicable, documents in relation to the participation of a student in the grade appeal process and
- k) If a refund is due, evidence that the refund was issued.

Institutions should not archive records containing sensitive personal information such as unmasked credit card numbers (including the 3 to 4 digit security code typically found on the back of a credit card), Social Insurance Numbers, bank account numbers, Driver's Licence Numbers, Permanent Resident Card Numbers, or whether receiving provincial income assistance. Please do not archive scanned images showing a cheque or any ID documentation.

Evidence of payments and refunds for tuition and fees means copies of wire transfers, EFTs, cancelled cheques, or credit or debit card receipts in addition to copies of receipts that allocate payments made to specific costs (tuition, books, etc). A receipt, on its own, is not "evidence". Evidence of a StudentAid direct deposit may be a screenshot of the line item for the student from a StudentAid BC report, or a printout with the other students' name(s) and payment

Documents in relation to a withdrawal or dismissal include a refund calculation and, if one is required, evidence of a refund having been issued (i.e. cancelled cheque or wire transfer).

Institutions must also create and maintain an attendance record for each student enrolled in approved program that:

- includes the number of hours of instruction the student attended each day
- shows separately the hours of work experience attended, where applicable
- is updated at the end of every week in which hours of instruction have been provided

Additional records must be included in the student record in relation to Class A and B programs:

- a) A copy of the work experience agreement with the host organization and the student
- b) Evidence that the student has met the requirements for participation in the work experience component
- c) A copy of the evaluation of the performance of the student in the work experience
